U.S. Orders Probe of Tia Juana Tragedy

SALOON MAN HELD, RESULT OF 4 DEATHS

Last Member of San Diego Family, in Wild Time at Mexican Resort, Is Dead

MURDER OR SUICIDE?

Opinion Is Divided As to Whether Father Slew All Or End Due to Choice

(By United Press)
SAN DIEGO, Feb. 9.—The state department at Washington today ordered a federal investigation of the attack made in Tia Juana on Audrey and Clyde Petet, dead with their parents in an apparent suicide pact, following the disgrace of the border trip.

In a reply to a telegram from Coroner Schuyler C. Kelly, Secretary of State Frank B. Kellogg today wired:

"Your telegram of the 7th received and investigation ordered." Kellogg's message was in reply to an appeal sent to him Sunday by Coroner Kelly, as follows:

"Would respectfully request that you send a representative here to investigate the outrage on two American girls at Tia Juana, Mexico, which resulted in three deaths and possibly another. Identity of persons committing outrage known to U. S. customs officers and immigration officers."

Last Member of Family Dies
The tragic finale of a night at Tia Juana, which prompted a father to wipe out his entire family, or impelled them all to take their own lives, was enacted here today when Clyde Petet, last survivor, died, carrying with her the secret of the strange domestic tragedy.

The bodies of Clyde's mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. T. M. Petet, and her 19-year-old sister, Audrey, were found in a gas-filled room at their home here Saturday, after an all-night visit to the notorious Mexican resort. It probably will never be known whether the case was one of murder or wholesale suicide. Authorities had hoped Clyde would recover to tell the story of the tragedy.

Petet was found dead with a revolver clamped in his hand. Circumstances indicated he had compelled the entire family to gather with him in the "death chamber" and submit to suffocation. Even the family cat was placed in a sack and smothered to death.

Night in Border Resort
Authorities said they learned the father had become enraged when his daughters became "lost" at Tia Juana and spent the night there instead of coming home with their parents. "Outraged righteousness" might have compelled him to force suicide on the entire family, police reasoned.

Mexican police held Luis Amador, proprietor of a Tia Juana saloon, today. It is claimed that the Mexican officials that his handwriting compares with that of a man who registered at the National with one of the girls, who had been drugged.

At Tia Juana, they treat the tragedy of the Petet family as "just another homicide affair." Whether it was murder or suicide can matter little now, they reason.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—The Elliott public building bill, authorizing appropriation of $150,000,000 will be taken up by the house next Monday, the Republican steering committee decided today.

The measure will be called up under suspension of rules, which prevents the offering of amendments.

A two-thirds vote is necessary under this procedure for passage.

PONZI INDICTED ON FOUR COUNTS IN FLORIDA DEAL

CHARLES PONZI

Promoter Makes Promise Of 200 Per Cent Gain To Land Buyers

(By United Press)

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Feb. 9.—With supreme confidence and still carrying the same dapper, unflinching air, Charles Ponzi, the get-rich-quick dreamer, came back to Jacksonville today to face the charges that threaten to bring back the collapse of his second great scheme for big profits and sudden wealth.

Ponzi left Tampa, where he had been planning a third venture—the colonization of the west coast of Florida with Italian fruit growers—shortly after he had been informed by the United Press that he had been indicted here on charges of violating the Florida act of 1923, regulating persons or associations doing business under declaration of trust.

The indictment, of a very technical character, cited four counts of alleged law violation, all having to do with failure to file a proper declaration of trust in connection with his methods of financing the purchase of land in Columbia county at $10 an acre.

Ponzi sold units of indebtedness at $10 each, promising 200 per cent profit in three months. The indictment charged him with failing to file a proper declaration of trust in connection with his methods of financing the purchase of land in Columbia county at $10 an acre.

BUENOS AIRES, Feb. 9.—The Argentine foreign office announced that Ramon de Franco, Spain-to-Argentine aviator, who left Rio de Janeiro for Montevideo this morning, was continuing on to Buenos Aires and was sighted approaching this city at 7:20 p. m.

(By United Press)

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil, Feb. 9.—Ramon Franco, the Spanish aviator, flying from Spain to Buenos Aires, got away at 7:20 a. m. today, from Rio, enroute to Montevideo, his next stop.

His start was slightly delayed when it became evident he was attempting to carry too heavy a load and it was necessary to leave behind some of his cargo.

However, the big Dornier plane finally arose and soared away southward.

His condition, however, is not considered serious.

One Killed And 4 Captured By Posse

CHADWICK, Ill., Feb. 8.—A daring dash to freedom by two convicted payroll bandits at Clinton, Ia., with the assistance of three confederates, was frustrated here today by a sheriff's posse, which captured all five men, killing one of them. Harry Marks, a Chicago gangster, was slain. He was one of three men who had assisted Arthur Fairfield and Frank Sawyer in an escape from the sheriff's custody at Clinton this morning.

PUBLICITY ON INCOME TAX IS REPEALED

Senate Joins House in Ban On Publication of Revenue Returns by Citizens

BY VOTE OF 49 TO 32

Way is Opened for Final Adoption of Republican-Democratic Coalition Bill

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—The rebellious group opposing the Republican-Democratic coalition tax bill—crushed yesterday in its fight for income tax publicity—rose up in the senate today to assail the plan for elimination of federal inheritance taxes. An amendment was proposed by Senator Norris, Republican, Nebraska, to provide that the recipient of any gift, bequest or inheritance over $5000 should pay the same income tax as if he had earned the money.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 9.—The senate has joined the house in the decision that there will be no more publication of income taxes paid by citizens to the federal government.

By a vote of 49 to 32, the upper house last night killed the amendment proposed by Senator Norris, Republican, Nebraska, which would have submitted the entire tax return of every citizen to public inspection.

The action clears the way for final adoption before the end of the week of the new Republican-Democratic coalition measure, which will reduce the payments to be made the 15th of next month about $352,000,000.

Will Kill McKellar Measure.
One other publicity measure, proposed by Senator McKellar, Tennessee, Democrat, remains to be voted upon, but it will be killed by a larger majority than the Norris bill.

McKellar's amendment would provide continuance of the present law enacted in 1921, authorizing publication of annual lists containing the total amount of the tax paid by each taxpayer.

When some pending points of relatively small importance are finally brushed out of the way, the senate will take up the inheritance tax elimination proposal—the only item of highly controversial nature remaining.

Skirmish on Motor Tax.
There will, in addition, be some skirmishing over the automobile tax and the technical features of the board of tax appeal, but the only question which will require extended consideration and cause a close vote is the inheritance tax.

The senate committee eliminated the tax entirely and made its action retroactive to 1921. The house previously had cut the maximum from 40 to 20 per cent. There will be an effort in the senate to restore the house provision.

Cardinal Opposed To Outlawing Rum

BOSTON, Feb. 9.—William Cardinal O'Connell, dean of the American Catholic hierarchy, favors temperance, but is strongly opposed to compulsory prohibition, which, he says, is in collision with the Holy Scriptures and Catholic tradition.

In the first statement he has issued on the subject, the cardinal emphasized the fact that for 1900 years the Catholic church has worked for temperance and will continue to do so.

"Compulsory prohibition in general I stoutly opposed to Holy Scriptures and Catholic tradition. Moreover, it is grossly untrue to say that pathology and dietics have brought in a verdict of guilty against the immortal beverages of the old world," he said.

SAFETY MEETING CALLED AS AUTO DEATHS MOUNT

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—With the death toll from automobile accidents growing steadily, Secretary of Commerce Hoover today called the national conference on state and highway safety to meet here again on March 23 to discuss methods for solving the great traffic problems of the nation.

The conference will be given figures compiled by the commerce department showing deaths from automobile accidents in 1925 were more than 18,000, an increase of 1000 over

PRESIDENT REFUSES TO MEDDLE IN COAL STRIKE

Coolidge Declines to Act On Senate Resolution For Conference

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—President Coolidge, in the face of a senate request for action to settle the anthracite coal strike, now six months in duration, refused today to alter his policy of inactivity. A senate resolution, adopted by a vote of 55 to 21, called upon him to summon the striking miners and the operators to the White House "at any time he may see fit."

Within 15 minutes, the White House spokesman asserted that, although grave consideration would be given the senate request, President Coolidge was opposed to government meddling, which he believed would not settle the strike nor improve the situation at this time.

Situation Not Altered
The president would have acted before this if he had believed action by him could have helped, and the senate's resolution does not change the situation materially, it was said.

The coal resolution, adoption of which has been demanded by Senator Copeland, New York, Democrat its author, for more than a week, was amended to say intervention by the president "at any time he sees fit" was requested and this change caused the administration senators, including Senator David Reed, Republican, Pennsylvania, to call off the opposition he had led against it.

The senate's action was interpreted by the president as a step to eliminate expected long debates on the coal situation, which might hinder the early passage of the $352,000,000 federal tax reduction bill.

Hoover Answers Charges
Secretary of Commerce Hoover today replied to charges that he was holding up coal legislation, made in the senate by Senator Copeland, Democrat, New York.

"The commerce department cannot write essays on each 5000 measures sent to us every session of congress," Hoover said.

"The department's business is to advise congress when it is called before a committee."

He added that it was not the department's business to push bills through congress and that he had not been asked for any coal legislation suggestions.

3 WOMEN NABBED FOR BOOZE DEATH

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 9.—Three women were arrested here today in connection with the death of Harry Snyder, 55, allegedly from the effects of poison liquor.

The prisoners are Mrs. K. Casper, 47, Mrs. Pearl Davis, 35, and Mrs. Betty Miller, 26.

It is claimed the women sold his Snyder liquor which caused his death. O. B. Cray, owner of a residence wherein the drinking was alleged to have occurred, was sought on a charge of possession of illicit liquor.

Film Stars Are Married Again

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 9.—Alma Rubens and Ricardo Cortez were remarried today. The film stars motored to Riverside, where the ceremony was performed within 10 days was performed.

Through a technical mixup, Cortez and Miss Rubens were married a week before her divorce from Dr. Daniel Carson Goodman had become final. Court attaches delayed in entering the decree, it was said.

The same justice who "married" the film couple on January 30, re-enacted the nuptials.

According to Cortez, who was Jacob Krontz, of New York City, before he came to Hollywood not many years ago, Miss Rubens is his first wife.

STRESEMANN FLAYS ITALY IN REICHSTAG

German Foreign Minister Strikes Back at Attack Launched by Mussolini

PEACE PACT VIOLATED

Oppression of Teutons in South Tyrol Is Declared Contrary to Assurances

BERLIN, Feb. 9.—German indignation at Premier Mussolini's "Beyond Brenner" speech has led to a boycott of Italian oranges and other fruits and Bavarians are buying only Spanish fruits. The "Singakademie" has cancelled a proposed singing tour of Italy. At the Munich station, a huge placard declares: "German tourists going to Italy are traitors."

(By United Press)

BERLIN, Feb. 9.—German Foreign Minister Gustav Stresemann today repudiated Italian Premier Mussolini's attack on Germany, in which Mussolini asserted Italy could advance "beyond the Brenner" pass.

Speaking before the reichstag, which had reserved a special period for his reply to Mussolini's threats of "a whole mouthful of teeth for a tooth," Stresemann declared that Italian oppression of Germans in South Tyrol violates the assurances given by Italy when that mountain region was annexed to Italy, under the peace treaty.

Germany Virtually Helpless
Stresemann spoke earnestly before a crowded house, many of whose members had been worked to a high pitch by what was characterized among them as a serious affront from a supposedly friendly neighbor. While awaiting the speech of Stresemann, the press here adopted a more energetic tone toward Italy than heretofore. The Nationalist Lokal Anzeiger, for instance, said that, were Germany not now defenseless, her retort to Mussolini's speech, declaring Italy could on occasion push her banners beyond the Brenner pass, would be a declaration of war.

The more moderate Berliner Tageblatt is sarcastic over Mussolini's reference to German tourists "roaming through Italy dressed like cave men," and regrets that the Germans have not yet acquired the "elegance of the Fascist Black Shirts."

Applause from Reichstag
Stresemann drew applause when he sternly declared:

"Since the Bavarian non-German government is responsible for the boycott movement in Germany against Italy. Therefore it seems to be an unheard of procedure to threaten a rupture of international commercial relations, which would also render international relations impossible."

The foreign minister deplored the Italian atmosphere of "political expansion," which he declared contradicted the spirit of Locarno.

Italo-German relations, he continued, had been very friendly until 1924, and then the German movement arose in reaction to the Italian course with the South Tyrol Germans.

"We are concerned with safeguarding the right of self-determination," Stresemann said. (This refers to a plebiscite yet to be held to determine the nationality of a part of Tyrol not yet definitely ceded to Italy.)

Stresemann Becomes Sarcastic
Waxing a bit sarcastic, Stresemann asked why Mussolini was infuriated at German tourists' boycott on Italy since, according to the premier's speech, he considers their dress and culture contemptible.

Referring to Mussolini's proposal to remove a statue of the great Tyrolean poet, Walter von der Vogelweide, and to replace it with a statue of Battistini, an Italian

AUSTRALIA SWEEP BY FOREST FIRES

SYDNEY, N. S. W., Feb. 9.—Hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of damage has been wrought in southeastern Australia by forest fires raging in the wake of intense midsummer heat for the last fortnight.

Small townships have been swept away and several lives lost and only the most valiant work has saved some of the larger townships from falling before the rush of pine-fed flames.

The southern half of New South Wales and practically all of Victoria are affected. Many settlers in the districts have seen their properties swept away, while vast acres of government pine, dry as dust, have gone like kindling in a furnace. Years of patient reforestation will be necessary to repair the forests damaged.

"Purges" and "Physics" Bad for Old Folks

While Dr. W. B. Caldwell, of Monticello, Ill., a practicing physician for 47 years, knew that constipation was the curse of advancing age, he did not believe that a "purge" or "physic" every little while was necessary.

To him, it seemed cruel that so many constipated old people had to be kept constantly "stirred up" and half sick by taking cathartic pills, tablets, salts, calomel and nasty oils.

In Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin he discovered a laxative which helps to "regulate" the bowels of the old folks. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin not only causes a gentle, easy bowel movement, but each dose helps to strengthen the bowel muscles, shortly establishing natural "regularity." It never gripes, sickens, or upsets the system. Besides, it is absolutely harmless and pleasant to take.

S. A. MUNICIPAL BAND TO PLAY NEW NUMBERS

Rehearsals now in progress promise a finished program by the Santa Ana Municipal band at its first mid-winter concert, to be presented Tuesday evening, February 16, in the high school auditorium. The evening entertainment will start at 8 o'clock.

According to D. C. Clanton, the program will differ from previous entertainments, in that no number scheduled has been played in public by the musical organization.

"It is the aim of the band to present a concert at this time that will please everyone, regardless of what his musical inclinations may be," Harry Hanson, president and manager of the band, said.

"The program will include marches, waltzes, fox trots, heavier numbers and compositions by Director Clanton.

"The band has been rehearsing the new music for some time and its program will give music lovers of this city one of the best band concerts ever presented here."

GOODWILL BRANCH CHANGES LOCATION

The popular reception of the Santa Ana branch of the Goodwill Industries has made it necessary for the local branch to move into larger quarters. It was announced today by J. Winterbourne, manager. The Goodwill store now is located at 1029 East Fourth street, near the Southern Pacific and Santa Fe depots.

One of the new features of the enterprise, which will be added in the near future, will be a free employment agency for handicapped or physically disabled persons.

A reconditioning department soon will be installed here so that old clothing, shoes and other wearing apparel may be remade and sold at a moderate charge. Persons who have clothing, which is of no use to them, are asked by Winterbourne to communicate with his organization. The reconditioning of the clothing is done by handicapped persons, who are paid for their work out of the proceeds from the sale of the remodeled clothing.

RECORD ATTENDANCE MARK SET AT DISTRICT LIBRARY MEET, HELD IN FULLERTON

A record attendance for the sixth district California Library association was the mark set for the convention, held last Saturday in the Masonic temple in Fullerton, where 300 librarians and many Orange county persons interested in the work, gathered for the all-day program, which was presided over by Miss Margaret Livingston, of Santa Ana, county librarian, and Miss Ethelene M. Kitching, of the Fullerton high school library, as secretary.

The sixth district includes Imperial, Los Angeles, Orange, Riverside, San Bernardino, San Diego, San Luis Obispo, Santa Barbara and Ventura counties, with a membership of 600 workers in public, county, school and special libraries.

The Orange County Library club, the membership of which is made up of all the library workers in the county, was the hostess for the day. Miss Minnie Maxwell, of the Fullerton public library, assisted by a group of librarians, greeted the guests.

The Masons tendered the use of their temple and the members assisted in serving luncheon. Complimentary baskets of flowers were presented by the Woman's club, Kiwanis club and lodges, and the Kiwanis club and chamber of commerce assisted in the librarians, greeted the guests.

Mayor Welcomes Guests
The address of welcome was delivered by H. H. Crooke, mayor of Fullerton, who tendered a cordial and well expressed greeting and outlined the place of the library in civic life. A letter of welcome, from T. E. Talbert, president of the Orange county board of supervisors, was read.

Mrs. Theodora Brewitt, of the Long Beach library, announced that the annual state meeting will be held in Long Beach the first week of June, plans for the program now being in progress.

Miss Althea Warren, of the San Diego public library, whose topic was "Children's Books," said that style in books, like style in clothes, is dependent upon richness of material.

"The Dynamic Librarian" was characterized by Richard Warner Borsal, head of the English department of the Fullerton high school and junior college, as one who could put across the message that is contained in books. He said some books contain dynamite, which may awaken thought and stimulate a desire for knowledge, and it is a privilege for a librarian to introduce such books to readers.

Respond to Toasts
At luncheon, Mrs. Mabel E. Faulkner, president of the Orange County Library association, and librarian in Orange was toastmistress. Miss Eleanor Hitt, San Diego librarian, and H. O. Parkinson, formerly of the Stockton public library, now with the western branch of Gaylord brothers company, responded to toasts. Willis H. Kerr, librarian of Pomona college, formerly of the Kansas State Normal college, responded to a toast on "Winter Roses," with comment on the delight of gathering roses the year around. Mrs. Frances B. Lind, Santa Barbara public librarian, brought greetings from Pegasus, the wooden horse, on the top of the remodelled stable, which is temporary quarters of the library there, and announced that the work of restoring the library destroyed by the earthquake now is in progress.

The most important matter of business during the afternoon session, which was opened by vocal selections by Robert L. Brown, of Santa Ana, was the acceptance of a report from special committee on library training, following which a resolution, that the sixth district, realizing the great need of more opportunities for library training in California, recommend to the California Library association that the strengthening of library schools should be a part of its active program, was unanimously adopted.

"Recent Library Activities" was the subject of Milton J. Ferguson, California state librarian, member of the American Library association executive committee and director of extension work in the League of Library associations. Mr. Ferguson told of his trip to Chicago, to attend the national convention, and to Louisiana, where he was called to explain the library system of California, which is recognized as the best organized in the country.

Lady Adams, a typical English woman, much traveled, gave a lively talk on "Library Gossip," commenting on authors and literary clubs in London.

YOUTH SENTENCED ON PERJURY COUNT

Alfredo Garcia, of San Bernardino, who pleaded guilty to perjury in connection with his recent marriage to a San Bernardino girl, in Santa Ana, today was sentenced by Superior Judge R. Y. Williams, to a term in San Quentin. Sentence was suspended, however, for a period of two years, during which time Garcia will be committed to the Preston School of Industry, Ione.

Garcia now is 20 years old and must remain in Ione until he is 22, the court decided.

The Mexican youth swore falsely to the age of his bride when securing a license to wed.

Anti-Evolution Bill Introduced

FRANKFORT, Ky., Feb. 9.—A bill to prohibit teaching of the theory of evolution in state-supported schools was introduced in the general assembly today by Representative Johnson. The bill is modeled after the measure passed by the Mississippi house of representatives yesterday. It was tabled by a vote of 17 to 25.

SCHOOL ZONE SPEEDERS ARE UNDER ARREST

More than 25 Santa Ana residents are due to appear before Judge J. F. Talbot, in police court tomorrow morning, to answer to charges of speeding across school stops, according to an announcement today by Claude Rogers, city marshal, who for the last week has, through his motor police, arrested drivers who apparently pay little attention to the school zones, he said.

"We have warned the public on numerous occasions that school zones are safety zones and that drivers cannot speed through them. The warning has had little effect and so we have decided to bring them into court," Rogers said.

Rogers asserted that the campaign against motorists who speed through school zones would continue and that officers would "work" these areas as much as possible in the future.

Merchants Are Warned
A greentaxi on the part of Santa Ana merchants and other business men who receive police tags for parking overtime in restricted districts, and other minor infractions of the city motor laws, has caused the police to issue a warning today, directed against them.

Bench warrants are to be issued for persons who receive tags and who fail to appear.
Chief Rogers said that he knew several well known merchants who have been receiving tags regularly, but who have failed to come into court, and that these would be the first sent for. He stated that some of them were even bragging on the fact that they received tickets and did not appear.

Date of Drive Uncertain
Just when the campaign would start against persons who do not appear, was revealed by a marshal, who said that it would take place "in the near future."
"We have always been very considerate of persons who have received tags, but it has got to a stage where they do not give the tickets their attention, and we find that we will have to go after them," Rogers said.

Check Is Awarded Santa Ana Woman

Mrs. James N. Bartholomew, R. D. No. 1, Lemon Heights, has received a check from the Skinner Manufacturing company, of Omaha, Neb., as a prize award in a contest on "Why Skinner's Macaroni Products are Superior."

According to the company, thousands of letters were received and more than a month's time was needed in which to grade them and select the winners.

Although Mrs. Bartholomew did not win one of the larger awards, special credit is due, as only 135 of the thousands of letters received were awarded prizes.

One of the most important points in this winning letter was the fact that Skinner macaroni products are made from amber durum wheat flour.

WHAT COUNCIL DID TABLE PLAN OF FIRST STREET WIRE CONDUITS

In the opinion of the city council, placing of telephone and other wires on East First street in conduits is impracticable at this time, and for this reason the city solons tabled a recommendation by the East Side Improvement association that the wires be placed underground before the street is repaved. Councilman C. H. Chapman pointed out that it would be at least 18 months before the public utilities could make such installation were they to start the work at once.

Signified by a large number of property owners, a protest was filed against widening of South Main street and the installation of ornamental lights. Many of the signers withdrew their names from the petition for the improvement. The latter petition, however, has not been filed and the protest was filed for future reference.

A request was made for a boulevard stop on Ross street, at Fairview, by a resident living near the intersection. It was declared that accidents frequently occur at the corner.

Application by Mrs. Margaret Barnes, for permit to operate a rooming house at 1067 West Fifth street, was denied.

On recommendation of Street Commissioner Goode, deeds were ordered accepted for widening a street along the east city limits, running from Seventeenth street to Santa Clara avenue. The partially opened street has been known as Mabury street but will be changed to Wright street, on recommendation of the commissioner.

Investigation of steps to open West Seventh street, from Bristol to Artesia, was referred to Councilmen Goode and Chapman and Engineer Neff.

The engineer was directed to prepare plans and specifications for paving Pomona street, from Main to Maple.

Three lights were ordered in on Fairlawn avenue, between Fifth and Eighth streets.

The city clerk was authorized to advertise for 1000 feet of fire hose.

Mr. and Mrs. George Betts of Winnipeg, Canada, who are spending the winter in Southern California, and who are at present in Long Beach, passed the week-end with Dr. and Mrs. Will A. Betts, at the First Methodist church parsonage. Dr. and Mrs. Betts motored with the former's brother and his wife back to Long Beach yesterday. George Betts is secretary of the Gordon Ironsides Packing company of Winnipeg.

Mrs. Charles W. Chamberlain of 310 West Camille street was called to San Diego last week by the illness of her sister, Mrs. Dick Eng. Mr. Chamberlain and their son, Leon spent the week-end in San Diego and bring the report that Mrs. Eng's illness is improving. She has made a number of friends here through various visits in Santa Ana.

Miss Lillian Van Osedale, now in the employ of the Balboa Chamber of Commerce, was a visitor in Santa Ana yesterday.

Mrs. Olive A. Peeler, a well-known modiste of Denver, Colo., has come to Santa Ana to reside and is located in the Shriver apartments, 203 1/2 West Tenth street.

Mrs. C. G. Ramsey of 620 West Eighth street is visiting her daughter Mrs. D. M. Washburn of Los Angeles. Mrs. Washburn is very ill with la grippe.

Mrs. J. H. Culver of Los Angeles is the guest for a few days of her aunt, Mrs. Jane R. Peterson at 818 Riverline avenue. Mrs. Culver has many friends in this city who will welcome the opportunity to greet her at the Peterson home.

Welcome Sign Again Made Orphan

The "welcome" sign, given the city two years ago by E. D. Yost, today again was an orphan "baby."

One month ago, the city council dropped the "baby" on the front porch of the city planning commission, with instructions to bring it to life by installing it on North Main street.

After a month's consideration, the commission has decided that the urchin is too large and cumbersome to "nourish."

The commission last night threw the "welcome" sign back into the lap of the city council, with recommendation that it "do not be installed."

City Engineer Nat Neff will receive applications from those who may want to adopt a "baby," which cost E. D. Yost about $1500.

JUDGE ADVISES STREET SPEED ZONE MARKING

Many boys are being certified to the juvenile court for driving cars 35 miles an hour in 20-mile zones, and failure of cities to properly sign the 20-mile zones is making it impossible to impose sentences that would teach the accused good lessons, according to a communication from Judge E. J. Marks, judge of the juvenile court, read last night at the meeting of the city council.

Judge Marks advised that duplicate copies were being mailed to all incorporated cities in the county for attention of the authorities so that the situation may be corrected in cities where proper signing has not been done.

The state law provides that 20 and 15-mile zones be posted before conviction can be made for driving in excess of the speed limit in either zone.

While council members were certain that streets in Santa Ana are correctly posted, Street Commissioner Stanley Goode and City Engineer Nat Neff were appointed a committee to investigate the situation here.

The Rev. W. H. McPeak led in a consecrated prayer which followed the presentation of the diplomas. Those who received diplomas were Harvey Hoskins, Lois Reed, Allice Boyde, Maurine Harris and Mabel Johnson.

Credit for the successful meeting should go to Mrs. Will Lindsay who is at the head of the Junior Christian Endeavor.

Piano Recital

The second of a series of piano recitals was given Saturday afternoon when Alice Talcott Merigold presented a group of her pupils in a little musicale at her residence studio on North Main street.

The program was given almost entirely from memory and the pupils showed excellent technical training and tone equality and played with much freedom.

Worthy of special mention was Sinding's "Rustle of Spring," played by Miss Hazel Crawford, a talented young pianist whom Mrs. Merigold expects to present in recital sometime in the near future.

Miss Luella Chapman played Friml's "Twilight" with much expression and beautiful tonal quality. Others who did credit to their teaching and took part on the program were, Hazel Crawford, Louise Pearce, Eleanor Pearce, Luella Chapman, Evelyn Trickey, Marjorie Edmunds, Gwendolyn Talcott, Pauline Trickey, Lois Murray, Arden Murray, Margaret Griswell, Robert Adams, Betty Perrin, Betty Scheel and Lucille Holman.

CURB NUMBERS NOT DEMANDED BY CITY BOARD

Householders of the city have not been ordered by the city council to place street numbers on the curbs and statements by anyone that such an order has been issued are without foundation, according to declarations made by members of the city body, at its session, last night.

The declarations were incidental to discussions on a communication from Fred C. Blauer, who protested against a change in his residence number on Spurgeon street, arbitrarily placed by men who are placing street numbers on streets throughout the city. Blauer asserted that his old house number, 1315, is correct. The men made the number on the curb, 1319. Blauer's complaint was referred to Street Commissioner Stanley Goode and Engineer Nat Neff.

It was asserted by councilmen that the number painters have practiced the policy of placing the street numbers and then calling upon residence owners to pay a charge of 25 cents for each street number, whereas the agreement was that the owners were to be interviewed before the numbers were placed.

It was declared that a condition of the permit given the painters was that if they started placing the numbers on the curb in any block they must paint them in front of every residence in the block. However, they are not under obligation to place the numbers in every block and may pass up any block where owners are not sufficiently interested in the plan to pay 25 cents for each house number.

Current Comment By CHESTER H. ROWELL

men now living who remember when it was more than a month from Kansas City to San Francisco. The world grows small so fast that some of us have not yet been able to adjust our minds to it. We still think we can keep as far out of its concerns as George Washington wisely advised us to do in his time.

THIS matter of keeping the mind up to the modern pace of the body is a dizzy business, anyway. The writer remembers, a couple of years ago, spending one morning walking around London dodging left-handed motors and lorries. Then he hopped by airplane to Paris and spent the afternoon dodging right-handed autos on the boulevards. Modern machinery could transport his body across the channel in the brief mid-day interval, but nothing could give his mind the agility to make even so small an adjustment as jumping automatically to the right on one street and to the left on the other. We have speeded up everything except our own intellects.

Enrollment In Schools Shows Small Increase

With a total registration of 5218, a slight gain is shown in enrollment figures for the second semester of the Santa Ana city schools, released this morning by J. A. Cranston, city superintendent of schools.

At the close of the first semester of the present school year the enrollment registered 5154. No time was wasted in unnecessary duplication of registration or preliminaries, and the work of the semester was begun in earnest after placements and transfers had been completed in each classroom, the superintendent explained.

MME. TINGLEY COMMENTS ON QUESTIONS OF WIDE INTEREST

Noted Theosophist Refuses To Voice Opinion on U. S. Entrance in Court

OPPOSES CAPITAL PUNISHMENT IDEA

Unable to Understand How Religious Persons Condone Penalty of Death

Madame Katherine Tingley, internationally known religious worker and founder of the Universal Brotherhood and Theosophical society, at Point Loma, Calif., today, in an interview, voiced her observations on the world court, divorce, capital punishment, prohibition and other questions of general interest. In the course of the interview, she took occasion to touch upon matters having a direct bearing upon the teachings of theosophy.

The noted visitor arrived here last night from San Diego and registered at St. Ann's Inn. Tonight she will give a lecture in the Ebell club here.

"What is your opinion, Madame Tingley, concerning the entrance of the United States into the world court?" queried the reporter.

World Court Opinion

"Like most other people, I have, on that subject, decided opinions of my own," said the quick retort. "My work is entirely non-political. As Madame H. P. Blavatsky, the founder of the original theosophical society, which now bears the name of the Universal Brotherhood and Theosophical society, stated very soon after the commencement of her work, 'between theosophy and politics there is an absolute divorce,' and that is the position that has always been taken in the society. Our individual members are free to believe what they think right in regard to politics, and anything that I might say, therefore, would be purely my own views."

"Teach men and women to think right; teach them the real meaning of life and human responsibility; teach them that ethics are based on the laws of our spiritual nature, and in a very short time they will realize that right is right and wrong is wrong; and all other questions of human conduct will be easily solved on lines of real justice to all, political questions included. That is what theosophy teaches."

To the question, "Shall we make it less easy to get married and thus reduce the number of hasty and ill-considered marriages?" as stated by the reporter, Madame Tingley's reply was:

Sees Much Misery

"Ah, now you touch upon a subject which interests me deeply, for I see much unnecessary misery in the world arising out of these things. Too many human lives are wrecked, or morally injured, by hasty and ill-considered marriages. I believe that the trouble does not lie in the facility offered by legal machinery for gaining divorces, for certainly few things are so horrible, in my judgment, as morally mislaid unions, often productive through human weakness, of most lamentable and even revolting results."

Knowing the decided stand taken by Madame Tingley against capital punishment, as set forth in lec-

DE MOLAY WILL BRING COMEDY TO SANTA ANA

"Supper at Ten," a rollicking musical comedy, will be presented Friday, February 26, in the Santa Ana high school auditorium, by a professional company, through arrangements made by the Santa Ana chapter, Order of De Molay.

This announcement was made today by the heads of the De Molay chapter here, who have launched a ticket sales drive intended to fill the auditorium for the benefit entertainment.

Miss Margerita Otero, formerly with the Denishawn dancers, on the Orpheum circuit, is cast in the leading role. Eight principals take part in developing the theme of the comedy. A chorus of six girls also will perform.

A bachelor's apartment provides the setting for the production. The bachelor engages to dine there with an actress, at 10 o'clock. Three of his friends, believing that he will not be home for the evening, make similar arrangements to dine there at the same hour. Clearing up of the situation develops the plot.

Virgil Reed, senior councillor of the Santa Ana De Molay, is in charge of the ticket sale. De Molay members, who are heading special committees, are Louis Dixon, Cecil Edwards, Henry Powell, Richard Knight and Charles Seales.

BOULDER DAM BILL ADOPTION FELT CERTAIN

Revised Measure Expected To Pass House, Senate, During Present Session

Revised to include the recommendations of secretary of the interior, Hubert Work, the new Boulder canyon project bill is this week before the house committee on reclamation for consideration and action, and, according to information reaching Southern California from Washington, the bill's adoption during the present session of congress appears now to be almost certain, according to statements made today at the Boulder Dam association headquarters in Pasadena.

As it now stands, it was pointed out, the Boulder canyon dam bill is virtually an administration measure and is expected to receive the full force of the administration's support when it comes on the floor of the senate and the house for action.

Three Major Projects

Copies of the measure reaching Southern California this week reveal that the revised bill provides for the construction by the federal government of three major projects. These projects are: (1) A high dam at Boulder canyon, capable of storing at least 26,000,000 acre feet of water; (2) an all-American canal to irrigate the lands of Imperial and Coachella valleys; (3) a hydro-electric generating plant at Boulder dam, capable of developing 1,000,000 horsepower of energy.

These projects, according to the new bill, are to be financed by the federal government through a bond issue to the amount of $125,000,000. Of this total sum, $105,000,000 is to be used in the financing of the Boulder dam, the all-American canal and the power plant; $20,000,000 is to be reserved to meet interest charges on the loan amount during the period of construction, if necessary.

For Southern California cities, the bill assures a permanent domestic water supply from the Colorado river. One section of the act specifies that all contracts for domestic water shall be made for perpetual service, subject only to the rights of prior appropriations.

Payment of Construction Debt. All money invested by the government in the building of Boulder dam and the hydro-electric power plant is to be returned to the federal treasury, with interest, the bill provides, through the sale of power developed at the site of the dam.

Work on these projects, the bill specifies, is not to be commenced until the secretary of the interior has received contracts for power sufficient to guarantee a return to the government of all money invested.

In the case of the all-American canal, the bill provides, the government shall be reimbursed, under the reclamation law, for its construction costs by a direct charge upon the lands benefited. Money realized from the sale of any electrical power generated on the canal itself, the act states, is to be credited to the lands served by the canal.

Six of the seven Colorado river basin states must unconditionally ratify the Colorado river compact, as drafted at Santa Fe, N. M., Nov. 24, 1922, before the government may start work upon any of the major projects, the act specifies.

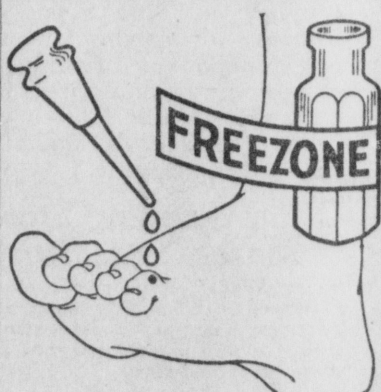

Sale of Electric Power. The sale of power to the various agencies seeking portions of the energy shall be handled by the secretary of the interior, the act provides. In making these sales, the secretary shall be governed by the provisions of the federal water power act, it is specified.

Among those agencies receiving power from the Boulder canyon plant, the act sets forth that any purchaser receiving 100,000 horsepower, or more, shall be required to permit a purchaser of 25,000 horsepower, or less, to participate in the use of its main transmission line from the generating plant to the market.

Preference is given to ex-servicemen and women in the settlement of all lands brought under irrigation by the all-American canal, the bill provides.

TEXT BOOK IS CALLED UNFAIR TO CALIFORNIA

Not altogether complimentary to the enterprise and development of the Pacific coast in general, and to the state of California in particular, is the new official text book on geography for use of certain grades in the California elementary schools, it was learned today at the board of education of the state.

The adoption of the text book in question, according to Supt. J. A. Cranston, was protested by State Supt. Will C. Wood, at a meeting of the state board of education held last week in Los Angeles. The Santa Ana city superintendent attended the meeting as a member of the California Council of Education.

The book, Smith's "Human Geography," which was adopted by a vote of 5 to 2, was protested on the ground that it misrepresented the entire group of Pacific coast states, and California in particular.

Only three products of the entire Pacific coast states—citrus fruits, dried fruits and canned salmon—are mentioned in this book, it is asserted.

In listing the products of California, it is stated, there is no mention of oil, not a word of manufactures, and no reference to hydro-electric development.

Miss Mamie B. Lang, commissioner of elementary schools, defended the new text book. The book, Miss Lang explained, will have a supplement covering fully the Pacific coast.

The house committee includes C. A. Miller, W. D. Baker and T. D. Knights.

J. P. Baumgartner heads the educational committee. J. A. Cranston is chairman of the boys' work committee, and Harry W. Lewis is chairman of the committee on religious work.

Martin Warren, chairman of the members' council, is appointed to head the social committee, Thomas Hunter the membership committee, and Dr. H. A. Stryker the physical department committee.

Each committee includes a number of members. Each committee may be enlarged by the chairman as he finds that he needs more workers. A general meeting of the committees probably will be arranged within the next week, when all these groups may meet to plan their work for the year.

Theater Party Is Robbed of $12,000

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 9.—Waylaid as they were returning from a theater party early this morning, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Kantor and a party of friends were robbed of jewelry and other valuables totaling $12,000. Two bandits lined the victims along the driveway of the Kantor home, stripping them of cash and jewelry. The bandits escaped in an automobile.

MUST ACQUAINT ELECTORS WITH COLLEGE VALUE

Law Provisions for Formation of District Are Explained by Mitchell

The need of an educational campaign in every school district to acquaint the voters with the provisions of law regarding the formation of a county junior college district, was emphasized today by R. P. Mitchell, county superintendent of schools, who has been named chairman of a general committee to investigate and report upon the feasibility as well as desirability of the project.

Calling attention to the provisions of act 1477 of the political code, providing for the organization of junior college districts, Superintendent Mitchell pointed out that before the voters of the Santa Ana and the Fullerton junior college districts would be allowed to vote on the proposition, they would be required to file with the board of supervisors a petition of two-thirds of the qualified electors residing in these junior college districts.

In this connection, it was intimated that while there is no doubt but that such a petition easily could be secured in the Santa Ana district, there might be some difficulty encountered in the Fullerton district, unless the voters had been told of the educational as well as economic advantages of a large centralized institution of learning, which, aside from strictly local considerations, would be an advertising asset to the entire county.

In addition to such supplementary petition from voters in the Santa Ana and the Fullerton junior high school districts, the law requires a general petition, signed by 500 or more qualified electors residing in the county, asking for a county junior college district, Mitchell explained.

Such petition, to be filed with the county superintendent of schools, was to be accompanied by a separate rate petition, signed by a majority of members of high school boards in each district. After verifying the signatures to such petitions and satisfying himself that the signatures are sufficient, the county superintendent transmits the petition to the board of supervisors for the purpose of calling a special election, or submitting the proposition at the first general election.

POLICE WILL OPEN DRIVE ON LOAFERS

Santa Ana police today launched a drive against loafers.

Through orders given all police officers last night by Claude Rogers, city marshal, loafers are to be arrested and charged with vagrancy.

"I have received a number of complaints about men and boys hanging around pool rooms in the city, and I want my men to arrest all men who do not have jobs and who seem satisfied without working," Rogers said.

Human parasites will first get a warning to go to work, according to the orders issued to police, after which they will be taken into police court to answer charges of vagrancy.

Rogers said he had received a number of complaints concerning a certain pool hall, but that the order affects all pool halls and other loafing places.

CONCERT WILL BE GIVEN IN CHURCH

Mrs. Adnee Hall, dramatic soprano, wife of Chaplain W. R. Hall, of the U. S. battle fleet, and Mrs. Francis Lee Albert, reader, wife of Chaplain E. L. Albert, of the U. S. S. New Mexico, will appear in a concert to be given the evening of February 12 in the First Baptist church. The concert will be under auspices of the Woman's society.

Mrs. Hall studied for three years under Homer Henley, of San Francisco, recognized as one of the leading vocal instructors on the Pacific coast. She specialized in oratorio. While her husband was on duty at San Francisco, she was the soprano soloist at the First Baptist church, Berkeley.

When her husband was transferred to the battle fleet at San Pedro, she was chosen as the soprano soloist at the First Presbyterian church, Long Beach. In San Francisco, she appeared before most of the large clubs and frequently was heard over the radio.

FORGY SPEAKS BEFORE WOMEN AT CLUB MEET

So pertinent in its details and so valuable in its suggestions was the talk on "Wills," recently given by Attorney Fred Forgy before the local Kiwanis club, that the speaker was asked to repeat the talk before the Business and Professional club women, meeting for luncheon yesterday at St. Ann's Inn.

It was through the efforts of Miss Lena Thomas, chairman of the February program committee, that the attorney was prevailed upon to repeat the talk, but he found inspiration in the unusually large number of the city's business women assembled to hear him, and held their close attention as he emphasized the important features attached to the making of wills.

During a brief business session, preceding the address, Miss Martha Whitson, president, announced that the meeting for Monday, February 22, would be lapsed as many of the members would take advantage of the holiday to be out of the city. She also spoke of the card party and dance, which the Orange Business and Professional Women's club will give Friday night of this week, suggesting that as many members as possible plan to attend. The party will be held in the new I. O. O. F. hall in the neighboring city.

Mrs. Clara R. Cushman, prominent woman attorney, yesterday was welcomed to membership. Guest greetings were accorded Mrs. Christy Warburton, Miss Wiseman, Mrs. Keeler and Miss Margaret Livingston.

BEACH TRUSTEES AWARD CONTRACTS

NEWPORT BEACH, Feb. 9.—Rodger brothers, local boat builders and repairers, were tonight awarded the contract to supply the city of Newport Beach with a 125-horsepower Diesel marine engine. The new engine will be used as a part of the pumping equipment of the city water system and will cost $11,185.74.

A deep well turbine pump was also ordered by the board of trustees at the session last night. The pump was ordered from the F. J. Kimball company, of Los Angeles, and will cost $1064.

The Myron Jackson Pump company, of Los Angeles, landed the contract to supply the city with a 1500-gallon centrifugal pump. The bid of the Jackson company was $2947.

A 50-horsepower natural gas engine was purchased by the city trustees from the Western Machinery company. A figure of $3595 was submitted by the Western Machinery company.

A pier to be used as a public landing in the bay was suggested by property owners of the East Newport section. A petition asking the city to pay one-half of the cost of the landing was submitted to the trustees. The property owners declared themselves willing to pay the other half of the cost. The petition asked that the landing be established at the end of Fernando street in the bay. The cost of the proposed pier would be $625, it was estimated.

An extension of time in the installation of the wood pipe was granted Stroud Brothers and Senbrook, contractors in charge of the work on that part of the municipal water system.

Wednesday—Church Training Night—First Methodist Church Classes in "The Life of Jesus," "International Relations," "Comparative Religions," "Old Testament History." Special Classes for boys and girls and children. Bring the whole family. Supper at 6 o'clock, 25 cents. Classes 7 o'clock. Assembly at 8 o'clock. Everybody welcome.

MAMMA FAILS TO KEEP HER SPEEDING SON OUT OF JAIL

Pleas and Sobs of Doting Mother Don't Move Hard Hearted Judge Morrison

YOUTH MUST SERVE 20 DAYS IN CELL

Student of Pasadena High School to Spend Easter Vacation in Durance Vile

Tears and sobs, not only on his own part, but also on the part of his mother and his sister, even a plea in the name of the Supreme Being, didn't suffice Meredith K. Smith, Pasadena high school student, when he appeared before Justice of the Peace Kenneth Morrison Monday afternoon on a charge of traveling the San Diego highway near Irvine at a rate of 68 miles an hour. He also was charged with reckless driving.

Young Smith was sentenced to serve 20 days in the county jail. He will serve his time during the Easter vacation.

The high school boy had been given his choice between entering his plea in the juvenile court, under Judge E. J. Marks, or appearing in the justice court of Judge Morrison. If he had chosen the juvenile court, he would have received a term of two weeks in the juvenile home. He picked Morrison's court because both he and his mother were sure the judge wouldn't send a high school boy to jail.

He's No Ordinary Boy. When Young Smith appeared before Judge Morrison his hair was combed back slick, the front of his red and white Pasadena high school sweater was encrusted with pins of a peculiar design. These, his mother explained, were the insignia of the clubs of which he was a member. "I'm not a bad boy," she said, "that he was no ordinary boy."

And the judge agreed with her. Any high school lad who can make the trip between San Diego and Santa Ana in two hours and a half is no ordinary boy, he admitted. "Please, oh, Mr. Judge, let me pay the fine," his mother pleaded. "I am his mother, you know. I raised him from babyhood. Please let me pay the fine or let me take his place. I am responsible for this boy you know!"

But Judge Morrison couldn't see it that way. When he made it plain that the boy would have to serve a sentence, the mother nearly swooned. The boy quickly took her in his arms. He quivered. With his head back and his arm extended, much in the manner of young forensic champions, he implored: "Pleads Against Jail Term. 'In the name of God, Judge, in the name of my mother and my sisters, please, please don't send me to jail!'"

But the judge was adamant. "Madame," he continued, "My mind is made up. This boy will have to go to jail. He crowded Sheriff Sam Jernigan from the highway and forced the captain of the Orange county motorcycle squad from the road. I imagine that if he had been the cause of either of those officers being killed, the people of Orange county would not have waited for a jail sentence."

This pronouncement had a withering effect upon the two as they stood before the bar of justice. "But surely, Judge, you stand for justice, you can't want to break the soul of this boy, a boy who has never been in trouble before. Think of the terrible name it will give

Filling Local Needs

A very few are concerned, chiefly, about getting everything to eat—and eating it. Many more think seriously about what they ought to eat. And, here and there, people actually plan a balanced ration.

Some people want money so badly that whatever it takes to get that lucre goes—prison sentences to the contrary notwithstanding. Some want friends. Some look for fame. Some ask for a day, and forget that the night follows.

We want everything—everything that is right. Lots of life, love, friends, money, work, sleep, refreshment, etc., etc. To get them we are willing to go the whole narrow way. If you want to see how we go about this, watch us crack down on this tire business. Every tire that goes out of here is O. ## MME. TINGLEY COMMENTS ON QUESTIONS

tures, magazine articles and published interviews, the Register man submitted the following question: "What is your attitude toward capital punishment? Should it be abolished? Can a person, taking his religion seriously, condone, much less vote for the death penalty?"

"I am absolutely opposed to the death penalty. I am absolutely in favor of its entire abolition. I cannot understand how a truly religious man or woman, seriously thinking, can condone this barbarous method of extreme punishment, by which the state itself does, in cold blood, that act which it so wisely prohibits the individual from doing."

Of interest to those who subscribe to the principles of divine justice, is her reply to the following query:

"Would not a better understanding of the Karmic law, as you theosophists teach it, that is, the law of compensation and retribution by nature's own action, serve as a stimulant to fair dealing among men as well as a preventive of crime?"

Favors Karmic Law

"Most certainly it would," she declared, "and without the remotest room for doubt. If men only realized that in the processes of nature's action, and by the sublime working of the spiritual laws governing nature itself, every thought, word and deed is registered as an act, destined to have its natural reaction upon the doer himself, and that nothing can turn aside or stay this most eminently just, then men would think twice, three, four, many times, before doing anything contrary to the principles of Right, Truth, Duty and Honor. In due course of time, the evil-doer punishes himself, so to say, while the doer of right similarly rewards himself. But the higher and nobler aspect of this question is that in time men come to love right action for itself alone and evil-doing becomes impossible to them in consequence."

Touching upon the mooted subject of prohibition, the noted theosophist had this to say:

"I believe in total abstinence, and some day all men will see the high moral value of this. But I hold that men cannot be legislated into goodness or virtue. It is a matter of education and example."

Stage and Screen

Jacqueline Logan and Cullen Landis in a scene from "Peacock Feathers," picture showing at the Yost theater tonight and Wednesday.

WEST END THEATER

A beautiful woman can face defiantly any tragedy but that of the doom of old age. And to see this tragedy enacted, as it is at the West End theater in "One Way Street," is to share with her its poignancy.

Seldom has it been our good fortune to witness a picture so gripping in its hold on the emotions, and we recommend it without reservation to those who enjoy good photoplays.

"One Way Street" brings Ben Lyon and Anna Q. Nilsson into a game of drama in which Fate holds all the trump cards, with the half-blind man players wittily vying against each other.

As a novel, "One Way Street" passed the test by becoming one of the best sellers. As First National it has brought it to the screen, it has much of the frankness and penetration of the novel, though presented with judicious restraint and dexterity.

Lyon, Miss Nilsson and Marjorie Daw stand out well against the brilliant background of English society in which the story is laid.

WEST COAST-WALKER

"Lady Windermere's Fan," the Ernst Lubitsch production, closes tonight at the West Coast-Walker theater after one of the most successful runs of the season.

The picture has a very brilliant cast, and proof that Lubitsch can make the famous epigrams of Oscar Wilde sparkle in terms of screen action.

Irene Rich, a beautiful, new, sophisticated, sirenish Irene Rich, plays Mrs. Erlynne, and her remarkably stirring performance is a credit to both Miss Rich and the masterly direction of Lubitsch.

May McAvoy is proudly lovely as Lady Windermere, while Ronald Colman makes a most ardently irresistible Lord Darlington. Lord Augustus is in the capable hands of Edward Martindel, and there are three delightful touchstones played by Helen Dunbar, Carrie Daumery and Billie Bennett.

"Candle Light," a new West Coast theaters Inc. presentation, conceived by Fanchon and Marco, brings to the West a fantastic setting that would be creditable to any one of the greatest New York productions. It has the song and melody of a light opera, and closes with an ensemble number that is surprising in its beauty and novelty. The presentation is by far one of the most fantastical and delightful offerings ever staged.

With Boyce Combs, "The American Prince of Wales," as master of ceremonies, Mildred Costello lives up to her billing as California's greatest Spanish dancer, in a new and original dance, "Valdyda," the Sophie Tucker of the song world, and a double-voiced radio star, sings two numbers in her very effective style. Arnold Grazer in "Moments of National Dances" brings a medley of dance steps to the act in an original and pleasing manner.

The presentation closes with the "Candle Light" girls in bed time costume, dancing and singing the very popular "Sleepy Time Gal."

YOST THEATER

The coming Association circuit vaudeville program is headlined by Tingley's following reply:

"For a fully satisfying question, I refer you to our standard theosophical literature, published only at our international headquarters, Point Loma, Calif. I may say here, however, that theosophy covers, in its doctrines, the entire field of universal as well as of human life. Among its fundamental teachings are the doctrine of Karma, that is, of Cause and Effect, and that of reincarnation, which is not what people call 'transmigration' at all, for the soul of man never reincarnates in the bodies of beasts—once a man, always a man. Reincarnation is the teaching that man lives repeated lives on this earth, always in human bodies, of quality according to what one has earned in former lives on earth. Others of our noble doctrines teach us the origin, nature and destiny of the universe and mankind. Most important also are the teachings of the essential divinity of man and the quality of human nature. The latter alone can explain the many inconsistencies, the Jekylls and Hydes, and all the contradictions which are so common in human life."

"But let me call your attention to the fact that in theosophy thinking men find a solid and satisfying basis for morals, for ethics; for theosophy furnishes us with a scientific as well as a philosophic and religious foundation for them. We do not tell men merely 'be good,' because it is good to be good; but we show them that right action is the fundamental law of their being. Theosophy provides men with reasons why goodness is wisdom and why evil-doing is folly."

The True story of a girl who wanted thrills!

MARION had every advantage fond parents could give her—yet she was desperately unhappy. A feverish desire to escape the commonplace routine of home possessed her. She longed to spread her untried wings and fly away. She dreamed of a life of new, strange pleasures; of romantic adventure; of an existence crowded with excitement and thrills. And the dream came true—but it also brought a bitter awakening.

Chance took her to Paris where, without experience, knowing nothing of the world and its countless pitfalls and temptations—she suddenly found herself an almost helpless prey of forces grimly determined to bring about her downfall.

What Marion went through in the gay French Capital is a powerful, heart-gripping drama—all the more convincing because it is true.

Young people who believe they are being cheated of life's pleasures—who long for adventure, romance and excitement—will read here a warning they cannot help but heed.

Marion's story, entitled "I Wanted Thrills," appears complete in True Story Magazine for March. And this is only one of the many absorbing true life narratives that appear in this issue of America's most widely-read magazine.

Other Gripping Stories in the March True Story Are:

"Dark Ways"—The power of evil is vividly illustrated in this pitiful story of a girl compelled by fate to match her innocence and inexperience against a wicked and powerful man. A story every girl should read.

"The Secret of Her Past"—When he married her after a whirlwind courtship, he was the happiest man in the world. Intoxicated by her beauty, he had never questioned who or what she had been before he met her. But when suspicion entered—read what happened. "Should a woman tell her husband everything?"

"The Evil-Doer"—In every city and village are highly respected men who have opportunities to do evil that, if exercised, would mean the eternal ruin of "sentimental" wives and innocent daughters everywhere. This tragic story will give you something to think about.

HONOR ROBERT E. LEE

KILLS SLEEPING HUSBAND

Mrs. Lillian Schaefer, of Chicago, ended her third matrimonial venture in tragedy when she killed her husband, Louis, as he slept. She told police that he beat her constantly, and that she bought a revolver for protection after a dog that she had trained to keep Schaefer away had died. She is shown with her 9-year-old son by a former marriage, William Flattery.

GRANGE ELEVENS COMPLETE AGAINST RED

BY HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—If "Red" Grange and his Grangers invade the professional football field here next fall they will have to jump into a freeze-out battle for survival, according to Tim Mara, director and principal backer of the New York Giants eleven.

"If Grange carries out his threat to promote a team in New York and conflicts with out Sunday dates, neither one of us will make a nickel," Mara said. "But we are in better position to survive as we are in an organized league and any other team that invades our territory without a franchise will have to play as outlaws."

It is the general opinion that New York—not having the zeal of the middle west for professional football—hardly will support two teams for many years.

It is a generally admitted fact that the New York promoters were running behind until Grange came in with the Chicago Bears for the last game of the season and pulled them out of the hole.

New York sportsmen believe that Grange could outdraw the Giants in games against teams like the one that "Wildcat" Wilson is said to be organizing on the Pacific Coast, but there are few such teams available outside the organization.

Churches Divided On Rum Question

CHICAGO, Feb. 9.—The controversy over modification of the prohibition laws became more heated in Chicago today as an evangelical church body endorsed modification, a Methodist ministers' meeting adopted resolutions against it and the national headquarters of the W. C. T. U. protested against the stand of an Episcopal minister, who expressed sentiment in favor of changing the laws.

Many Stars Enter Pasadena Tourney

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 9.—The Pacific coast's foremost tennis players have entered the annual Midwinter tournament on the Hotel Huntington courts at Pasadena Friday, Saturday and Sunday. Some classy exhibitions should be presented by the racquet wizards.

Among the entries are William M. Johnston, former national champion and Cranston Holman, junior national champion. These favorites will have to meet such stars as Howard Kinsey, Walter Westbrook, Gerald Stratford, Neville Craig, Harold Godshall, John Doeg, Peck Griffin Bud Chandler, Phil Neer, Jimmy Davis, Simpson Sinsabaugh and Eugene Warren.

COLIMA AND MOORE OPPONENTS TONIGHT

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 9.—One of those situations which are peculiar to boxing will be enacted at the Vernon coliseum tonight when the voices of monomed Englishmen clash with shouts of Mexican fight fans.

Ted Moore, former middleweight of the British Isles, will meet Bert Colima, a prime favorite with his countrymen from Mexico, in a 10-round bout.

Colima's reign in Southern California as a victorious scrapper lasted for many years until Mickey Walker, world's welterweight champion, stopped him in five rounds in the same arena last summer. Bert took a bad beating from Walker and is just returning to good form.

Moore dropped a close decision to Leo Lonski here several weeks ago in his first Southern California bout. Henry Greb, world's middleweight champ, was Moore's next opponent, Moore again losing by a narrow margin.

Leonard Declines To Pitch On Coast

FRESNO, Calif., Feb. 9.—Hubert (Dutch) Leonard, former pitcher for the Detroit Tigers, and recently turned over to the Mission club of San Francisco does not intend to play ball this year but will insist on his "voluntary release" in order to take care of his ranch and other business interests, he said today. It is understood that William H. McCarthy, manager of the San Francisco club, has had several conferences with Leonard trying to persuade him to pitch this year.

TAYLOR CANCELS BOUT

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 9.—Bud Taylor, Terre Haute terror, did not leave San Francisco today to meet Vic Foley of Vancouver on Friday night. Taylor instead cancelled the fight when the swelling in his left foot failed to subside. He injured the mitt in the Joey Sangor fight here last week.

PRINTING SHOP

One of the best high school print shops in the Southland, is the rating that has been won by the Santa Ana polytechnic high school plant.

Because of its complete equipment for state aid under the Smith-Hughes act, it was disclosed by John C. Beswick, superintendent of vocational training in California, who visited the Santa Ana school yesterday on an inspection tour.

The print shop was installed valued last year with equipment valued at $18,000. Instruction has been under T. E. Williams. Each week four school papers are issued and job printing done by the students.

If the recommendation for state aid is granted, trade courses in printing will be established in the Santa Ana school, Principal D. K. Hammond indicated.

Financial aid will be drawn from the state. An amount of $720 will be available from this source to meet print shop expenses.

Students, through the trade courses, will be enabled to work in the print shop for half a day instead of the two hour limit now enforced. The rest of the day will be taken up in academic studies.

Beswick also inspected the work being done by the students in the machine shop, woodwork, forge and auto shop. He said that the state was not encouraging the establishing of trade courses along those lines.

J. C. EXPECTS SUCCESSFUL TRACK SEASON

Billy Evans Says

By a vote of 5 to 3 the rules committee has again legalized the use of resin by the pitchers.

The three dissenting votes were polled by the American league representatives on the committee. The three National leaguers, Judge Landis and Dale Gear, representing the minors, went on record as favoring it.

Personally I am sorry that resin has come back as a pitching asset. First, because it is going to make more work for the umpires and they already have plenty. Second, because it will act as an opening wedge for the return of trick pitching.

Five years ago the majors ruled out the right of a pitcher to apply any foreign substance on the ball. This was to eliminate all forms of freak pitching that had reached such a stage that most twirlers were using trick rather than natural stuff.

Pitching had become too powerful, batting had slumped and the magnates wanted to increase the hitting.

Unfortunately they went too far by putting in the rabbit ball at the very time they eliminated trick pitching.

Doing away with trick pitching which had reached alarming proportions, would have remedied the lack of hitting, by tending to equalize pitching and batting.

Instead of getting a balance, the magnates went from one evil to another. From pitchers' battles, the games developed into slugging matches, featuring the home run, with Babe Ruth as the leading performer.

Near the close of last season, under constant pressure by the sports writers, who insisted the rabbit ball was making a joke out of the game, the manufacturers so changed the core of the ball, that its liveliness was decreased at least 20 per cent, probably more.

At that, a rabbit ball is better than trick pitching. All batters have an equal chance against the lively ball, but all pitchers are not capable of trick pitching. There are some who simply refuse to use dishonest methods to increase their effectiveness.

Resin is a foreign substance. Now that a foreign substance can be applied to the hands, it isn't always going to be resin.

If a pitcher puts a certain amount of resin on his hands, for drying purposes as the rule states, and then perhaps rubs his hands on his trousers, there is bound to be a dirty spot on the uniform as a result. That dirty spot is sure to cover a multitude of pitching sins.

In the old days of trick pitching many hurlers would have certain spots on their uniform into which they would rub powdered emery, which is not unlike resin in appearance. And they always managed to get powdered emery on the ball.

Other pitchers went so far as to have a large sized piece of emery paper sewed inside the shirt of their uniform and by rubbing the ball over that spot could easily roughen it.

The pitchers aren't going to be satisfied with merely using resin to dry their hands, it's going to be an excuse for many other forms of trick pitching. And always the pitcher will assure the umpire he is using nothing but resin.

Even at that, resin will accomplish most of the desired results. It will slightly discolor the ball, it will tend to roughen it, it will help load the seams. What more help could a pitcher want?

HOW LONG WILL TILDEN HOLD TENNIS CROWN?

BASKETBALL BITS

Santa Ana high school now has but the barest chance of winning the Coast Preparatory league basketball title despite the varsity quintette's recent winning streak. The championship virtually will be decided next week when the undefeated Long Beach and Pasadena tangle at Pasadena.

That Pasadena will be "undefeated" for the Long Beach fray may be an unwarranted statement. Santa Ana must be considered as a factor. Last year, Santa Ana, the tallender of the league, upset the Pasadenaans and cut them out of a championship. And now Santa Ana is better than a cellar champion and it is possible they may repeat when the court squads tangle here Friday night.

Coach "Chuck" Winterburn, who handles the varsity, has an aptitude for nicknaming. He dubbed the midwest's coach, Walter Scott, "Fighting Yogi" so Scott is no longer known by his real name.

Edgar, high school varsity player, is leading the Hi-Y league of the Y. M. C. A. in individual scoring. He has totaled 24 points in the two games this season. Merle Youel is second with 17 points. The scores follow:

Hi-Y League
Edgar, H. S. Sagamores	24

KIDMAN GIVES ODDS NOW 5-1 POLY BASEBALL THAT SUZANNE PRACTICE CALL DEFEATS HELEN

Stiff muscles and sore wings will be the vogue at Santa Ana high school within a few days when six letter-men and a host of promising candidates answer Coach Lyman Kidman's summons for the first practice of the 1926 baseball campaign. The men were scheduled to report for service this afternoon but it will take several days to get the full group assembled and things going in workmanlike order.

Kidman expects no less than a turnout of 25 men this season and many of that number will have had some kind of experience to add prestige to their bids for varsity positions.

"Feetlers" already have been sent to numerous high schools in Southern California and an impressive schedule of practice contests probably will be arranged before the team swings into action for its regular Coast Preparatory league schedule, which, as yet, hasn't been issued. Games are being sought with Whittier College, the U. S. C. and Pomona college freshmen, and Lincoln, Jefferson, Manual Arts, Compton, Downey and San Pedro high schools.

Ed Daley, a player with two seasons' experience on Poly teams, is captain of this year's club. He is a versatile infielder, a fine batsman and a brainy base-runner. Ernie Johnson, the Portland league manager, was anxious to take the local youngster to his training camp but Daley decided to complete his prep school course before taking a fling at professional ball and his decision did a lot to help Santa Ana's title chances this spring.

"Tex" Rister, southpaw flipper; Chet Siegel, veteran catcher, and Harold Pies, an outfielder, are the other members of the 1925 varsity who will report for practice tomorrow. Jerry Heard and Harold English, both members of the 1924 squad, are eligible for this season's club.

The city's two junior high schools will furnish a promising batch of players. Kenneth Early, star Julia C. Lathrop moundman last year, is expected to make a bid for a first string twirling position. Tommy Hitt, son of Roy Hitt, once the best southpaw in the Coast league, is another good baseball prospect. Other candidates include Cliff Walker, Harry Rademacher, Orie Goodman, Wilcox, George Preble, Bob Goetting, Melvin Beatty, Orville Schuchardt, Miram Dungan and John Keeler.

By clinging to the pace another year, he can tie the record. And, if he's able to withstand the annual assault for two more campaigns, he will hang up a mark likely to stand for years, if not for all time.

During the last two seasons many experts have been sounding the death knell of the Philadelphia performer. They claimed he was slipping, going back from whence there's no returning. But each time Tilden proved the regular was a bit premature. For he again routed all opposition.

True, he found the going somewhat rough and rocky last summer when his old rival, Johnston, as well as the two youthful French aces, Lacoste and Borotra, had him all but whipped. But a characteristic Tilden rally carried him through.

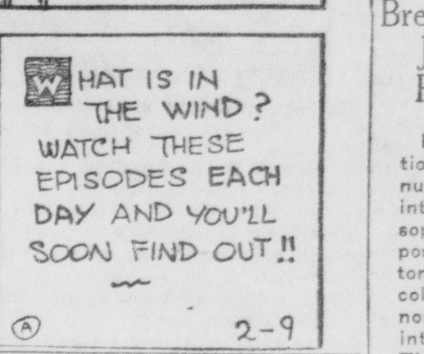

Tilden is known as a terribly slow starter. To some it's just plain carelessness. To others his early play smacks of indifference. Consequently he usually gets away badly. But he seems to play a stronger game when behind. Time and again he has pulled a seemingly lost cause out of the mire by a gallant stand in the ebbing moments of play. And no matter what the odds against him, he has always been capable of overcoming them.

Whether or not Tilden can skip through another campaign without dropping his chevrons remains to be seen. But from this distance his prospects for additional triumphs are exceedingly bright. For outside of Richards there doesn't appear a single pastime stout enough to overthrow the lean lad from Philly. And even Richards is apparently a bit shy of the stuff required to trip the titleholder.

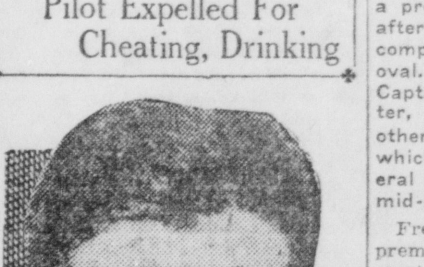

Played Every Inning. Glenn Wright of the Pirates played every inning of every game during his 1924 debut season, a rather unusual feat for a rookie.

Missouri Football Pilot Expelled For Cheating, Drinking

Pete Jackson, star quarterback and captain-elect of the University of Missouri football team, who has been expelled on charges of cheating at examinations and drinking. Two girls and another man were expelled with him.

Inter-class track events in the Santa Ana junior college called out a promising batch of athletes this afternoon when the season's first competition was held on the Poly oval. Al Hayes, premier sprinter; Captain Everett Lutz, Robert Vawter, Charles Webber and several other stars, reported for the meet which was expected to reveal several new athletes who enroll at the mid-term.

Freshman and sophomore supremacy was to be decided in the meet. Dope seems to favor the frosh athletes to cop the majority of the points with such men as Vawter, Webber, Herbert Strohschein, Gerald English and others to defend the class honors.

Harris, on the lookout for new men, has discovered three athletes who have entered their transcripts at the college for the new semester. Brewster, Huntington Beach boy, will strengthen the weight department by tossing the shot, discus and the javelin. English, speedy Santa Ana high school sprinter, is booked for the 100, 220 and 440 dashes. Melvin Harter, another Poly boy is hurdling the high sticks.

The most colorful athlete on the Dons' squad is the sensational Al Hayes, 10-flat sprinter. Webber closely rivals Hayes in versatility. He intends to invade six events this season. These are the 100 yard and 220 yard dashes, the low hurdles, high hurdles, high jump and broad jump. Webber took first place in the high hurdles at the conference meet last year.

Distance events seem the most popular among the scantily attired athletes. Ten men are signed for the mile. Bob Vawter is the class of the lot. Others promising well are Robert O'Brien, cross country winner; Carl Weisse, Kenneth Schroll, Donald Squires, Craig Lewis, Gilbert Meyers, John Lutz, Allen Gaddard and Maynard Ronin.

Everett Lutz is expected to win a lot of points in the pole vault. He cleared 11 feet, 3 inches last season. Lutz also does the low hurdles, the discus and javelin throws. The javelin, discus and pole vault, besides the distances, will be entered by John Lutz, Edward McHenry, San Juan Capistrano boy, hurles the platter and Adams and Lane is to try his hand at it and also compete in the 100 and the broad jump.

Other sprinters are Herbert Strohschein and Frank Labrucherie. Quarter-milers include Russell Kokx, Lawrence Kokx, Bill Young and Russell Squires. Crawford, a freshman student from Huntington Beach, will climb the sticks in the hurdles. The broad jump will be entered by Stewart Ritzer and Lawrence Barnett.

Showing surprise strength, the sophomore co-eds gave the senior girls athletes a unhealthy scare in a hockey match yesterday. Before the upperclass team was able to score the winning goal.

Scraping and fighting like little demons, the sophomore girls checked the attack of the seniors and held them scoreless until the third period.

The match marked the beginning of the second round of interclass competition. The victory entitles the seniors to keep in the running for class honors.

Because of the poor condition of the Poly oval, the annual Santa Ana junior college inter-class meet between the sophomores and juniors was postponed from today until tomorrow afternoon, junior college athletic officials announced. The high school inter-class meet will be held Thursday afternoon.

PITTSBURGH SUN EXTRA:

Mr. Karl Whitney immediately took over the management of the plant as Mr. Condon, the assistant manager, is now in the hospital, burned and delirious from what has happened, all the time bemoaning the fact that he could not have saved his employer and friend and Miss Perier, even if he gave his own life to do it.

Everything possible is being done for the sufferers and already Mr. Whitney has brought some kind of order out of the terrifying chaos.

It will be an interesting fact to the superstitious when it is known that Miss Perier had on the fatal pearls which she had just purchased from Mr. Prescott, and of course they were destroyed with her.

At this time, only about an hour since the accident occurred, no one knows what disposal will be made of the picture. Of course it will never be shown from the screen.

The loss of Miss Perier is almost irreparable to the moving picture industry. She was quite the most popular star in the whole profession.

Mr. Prescott came here at the request of Mr. Graves Hamilton, the founder of the mill, just before he died, and has been making a very great success of it during the last year.

All Pittsburgh is mourning with Mrs. Prescott and her two sons, who are yet too young to know that they have lost a father.

THREE YEARS LATER

Letter from Leslie Prescott to Little Marquise, care the Secret Drawer

I am sitting here writing to you the first letter since that awful accident and the last letter I shall ever write to you, dear little Marquise.

You have been a good friend and confidant to Leslie Prescott in the years gone by—years so full of sorrow and grief that I am going to try to forget them. If it were not for my two splendid boys I would want to begin my life from tonight. I would want to start on a new journey, the memories of those tragedies that led up to the awful holocaust which climaxed the end of my married life with John Alden Prescott completely blotted from my scarred heart.

Poor John! I have often wondered if he realized that there were two natures continually fighting against each other in his body!

His great mistake was in marrying me. The only woman for him was the woman who became with him a mass of steel from which no one could ever find any physical trace of the component parts of a human body.

ADVENTURES of the TWINS

by OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON
NO. 2—THE BLUE KANGAROO

"Names, please!" said the Kangaroo, stopping suddenly and taking a book out of his coat pocket.

"Where is the Land of the Blue Cherry?" asked the Twins.

The fairy Queen went to a map that hung on her wall. "I have so many kingdoms," she said, "that I have had to have a map made of them, so I shall know exactly how to reach each one."

She ran her finger up and down and finally she exclaimed, "Here it is! About six fairy miles from Yum Land, seven fairy miles from Nobody's Land, eight miles from Hidy Go Land and nine miles from the Land of Dear Knows Where. Now you should know exactly how to reach it. At any rate your magic shoes will know the way."

Suddenly poor Twinkle Pen, who had turned blue all over from drinking up his ink, began to sing, "Forty-nine blue bottles a-hanging on the wall! Forty-nine blue bottles a-hanging on the wall! Where can I find something to write on? I must put that down a thousand times so I won't forget it!"

"Quick, children, go at once!" cried the Fairy Queen. Poor Twinkle Pen! He can't be cured until he eats a blue cherry. Find it as soon as you can and bring it back!"

So Nancy said, "Magic shoes, please be good little fairies, and help Nick and Nancy to find the blue cherries."

"Cherry!" corrected the Fairy Queen. There is only one. It is called the Land of the Blue Cherry. No one knows exactly where it is. If he did know, I suppose the cherry would no longer be there. It is supposed to cure all ills."

"Like the Apple of Life that saved the beautiful princess in the fairy tale," said Nick.

"Exactly," said the Fairy Queen. "Forty-nine blue bottles—" began poor Twinkle Pen again.

"Oh, do hurry!" begged the Fairy Queen. "Do hurry!"

Suddenly the Fairy Queen and Twinkle Pen and the palace and everything faded away. And the Twins found themselves in a strange

MENUS for the FAMILY

By SISTER MARY

Breakfast—Sliced canned pineapple, cereal, thin cream, whole wheat toast, creamed smoked haddock on toast, bran muffins, milk, coffee.

Luncheon—Vegetable chowder, toasted crackers, stuffed prune salad, cabinet pudding, milk, tea.

Dinner—Split pea soup, broiled lamb chops, carrot straws, head lettuce salad, chocolate souffle, whole wheat bread, milk, coffee.

The breakfast planned takes care of young children as well as adults. Pineapple juice, cereal and toast should comprise the meal for children under school age, while older persons will find the sliced fruit, fish and muffins quite to their liking.

Chocolate Souffle
Two tablespoons butter, 2-3 tablespoons flour, 1 cup milk, 2 squares bitter chocolate, 1-2 cup sugar, 2 tablespoons hot water, 3 eggs, 1 teaspoon vanilla, few grains salt.

Melt butter and stir in flour. When perfectly blended slowly add milk, stirring constantly. Bring to the boiling point. Melt chocolate over hot water, add hot water and sugar and stir until smooth. Combine mixtures and add yolks of eggs beaten until thick and lemon colored. Let stand until cool. Beat whites of eggs until stiff and dry on a platter, using a wire whisk. Beat in salt and vanilla and fold into cooled mixture. Turn into a buttered dish and bake twenty-five minutes in a moderate oven. Serve with whipped cream.

This is an excellent "fuel" food for cold weather and should follow a light meat course as in this instance.

CYNTHIA GREY

Says: We Lose Sight of Values in Mad Chase After "Things"

By CYNTHIA GREY

All the world and his wife wagged their tongues some time ago when the daughter of a multi-millionaire married a famed composer of songs, a boy who rose from the lean shadows of the Ghetto to his place in the limelight.

Millionaire papa story has it, disowned his daughter.

Just why the mere son of a rich father should think himself or his family so superior to a boy who by sheer grit and genius within him made a world-famous name for himself, is one phase of the question which intrigued me.

But aside from the cheapness of this hue and cry about mistaken social caste, the old, old story of a parent insisting on choosing his child's mate is even more intriguing.

Personally, I feel that a parent has little or no right to interfere with the marital choice of any adult, normal son or daughter.

If we grant that love should be the basis of any marriage, even if we grant this necessity of love only as good marriage business capital, we must also grant that mind and reason and logic enter into the transaction very little.

A parent, however, motivated by that strongest of all human emotions, protection of offspring, passionately desires "a good marriage" for his or her child. Parents may want wealth, business security, family name, health, anything for their children which their own experience has taught them as a necessity or luxury of life. They make mind and logic enter the situation.

Life may have taught them that these things mean more than rosy love and the clamor of romance itself.

They forget, however, that they themselves in making their marriage choice love, and therefore have had for themselves the thing which they try to snatch for their children.

They forget, too, that when a person is in love, he is in love, and that ends it. And all rational considerations of wealth and position and family name mean nothing.

Love is the elusive white water lily which the poet saw afar on the pearly waters. Life is the wave, and one denied the plucking of his or her lily bud of love will only follow it forever as it is seen shimmering in the distance.

You can't dam or abort or dwarf love. Like the phoenix, it is born in rosy flame from dead ashes. Like the hydra, monster of old, three new heads grow for every one chopped off.

They forget that humanwise they are merely choosing as a summum bonum, the thing they themselves didn't have.

Is this your BIRTHDAY

TUESDAY, FEBRUARY, 9

If so, you are born with a capable and sound business head.

Your judgment of human nature is excellent and you have a rare ability to estimate other's faults and favors.

Your business is very apt to attract you from your home and the common pleasure of life which you need to help make your business more of a success.

Your home life, however, will be happy despite this fault, which you may overcome.

ENGLISH LANGUAGE IN DEBT TO MANY TONGUES FOR WORDS TUSTIN STUDENT DISCOVERS

By JOSEPHINE ROY

TUSTIN UNION HIGH SCHOOL, Feb. 9.—Who said that the English language is a language of its own?

Early in the morning John and Mary, as the case may be, (Juan and Maria from the Spanish) start for La Escuela, or school, in their automobile (though, more likely on their feet, though, or in a school bus. From the grounds surrounding the building or campus, a word derived directly from the Latin, they pass through the corridors (another unusual word in that it has been handed down from three languages, the Latin, French and Italian.)

Carrying their books they enter La Clase of either, Anglians, Musiques, Biologie, (all French), Algebra, Arabic; Chemistry, French, and various other subjects where they are instructed by teachers—in the old English, school masters, from the French maitre and the Latin magister.

Then perhaps during class Maria is called to Le Officium to be interviewed by Le princeps or principal. With sinking heart she begins to wonder what she has done and if she will get any demerits, Latin demeritum, meaning to deserve well or ill, usually ill in this case, however. So, feeling very woebecone, indeed, Maria enters, La Officium to be told that she will graduate (graduatus), with more credits (French) than necessary, necessary.

With joy she rushes back to her class and after about five minutes, passes (passer, French and from the Latin verb passer) from La Clase through the Patio (Spanish) and cloisters, a covered passage or ambulatory on the inside of a court connecting different buildings of a castle, to the cafeteria. In the cafeteria (another Spanish word) Maria and Juan, or Marcus and Lula (Latin) eat potato, mete, vegetables, les frutas, etc.

During the afternoon, the classes follow in a similar fashion varied, during the noon hour by assemblies (ensemble, French) and class meetings. In these assemblies and class meetings the words protom, comedy, drama, program and many others are used, all of foreign origin. With words of comment on the previous means of entertainment, or signs of disappointment at the brevity (brevity) of the hour, they pass through the exits (Latin) and the foyers (French) to the fifth period classes.

For reasons such as these mentioned, it has been said that the English language is "a melting pot" of the languages of various nations.

PLAYERS FOR BARRIE DRAMA ARE SELECTED

"Kiss for Cinderella" to Be Given by Members of Senior Class at O. H. S.

ORANGE UNION HIGH SCHOOL, Feb. 9.—Tryouts for the senior class play, "A Kiss for Cinderella," written by J. M. Barrie, author of "Peter Pan," were held recently with the following result:

WOULD-BE AUTHORS ARE GIVEN ADVICE

"If you want experience in writing, attach yourself to some newspaper," Edna Ferber, novelist, said in a recent interview in a New York paper.

"Free lanceing is good, but regular newspaper work is better. You need to have an editor tell you when you don't feel like working, to go out on a gloomy, rainy day, and interview someone who may be very disagreeable. You'll probably spend a miserable afternoon, but you'll get a lot of experience which will help in the writing game."

Other bits of advice to prospective authors included an admonition to "write, and write and write, all ways for the best." Second class writing will develop habits which cannot be overcome, and writing to please public taste will make a hack writer out of a possible genius.

Mt. Lowe To Be Goal For Visit By Science Class

By MARVIN RYAN

GARDEN GROVE UNION HIGH SCHOOL, Feb. 9.—Mount Lowe is due for a visit by the science classes and students of Garden Grove union high school. The coming Saturday members of Mr. Sprinkle's science classes accompanied by friends will go to Mount Lowe on an educational and pleasure tour.

A bus will be hired and the sightseers will start early Saturday morning, returning after sundown. They will stay late in order to see one of the largest reflecting telescopes in the United States.

In former years the trips were planned for the physics class and general science class to study the telescopes and for a good time. The biology students are included in the educational part of the trip this time. They will study the plant life on Mount Lowe under the direction of Mr. Sprinkle, science instructor of Garden Grove high school.

Chewing Gum Is Debate Topic At G. G. High School

By CLARICE CAMPBELL

GARDEN GROVE UNION HIGH SCHOOL, Feb. 9.—Resolved, That chewing gum is a worthy occupation. This is the question for the final debate in the series of interclass debates which will be held between the juniors and seniors in assembly February 12.

The junior debaters are Pearl Black and Lucile Shackelford and their opponents are Hilda Arkley and John Allen Fitz. In the preliminary debates, the juniors won from the freshmen and sophomores 3 to 0 and from the seniors 2 to 1. The seniors, who came second in the series, won from the freshmen 3 to 0 and in the senior-sophomore and senior-junior debates they lost by a 2 to 1 score.

The final debate will determine who will win the cup offered by the faculty. Last year the juniors, who are now the present senior class, won the trophy.

Such a question as the one chosen is sure to provoke many heated arguments in the three minute speeches and the two minutes allowed for rebuttal.

Which side the juniors and seniors will take has not yet been decided.

NEW QUESTION IS PICKED FOR ORANGE COUNTY H. S. DEBATES; SENATE SETTLES COURT ISSUE

By MARY HESS

GARDEN GROVE UNION HIGH SCHOOL, Feb. 9.—Resolved, That further issue of tax exempt securities be prohibited by an amendment to the federal constitution" was the question chosen for the county debates at the meeting of the debating coaches held last Tuesday in Santa Ana.

It was necessary to choose a new question for debating, as the other question, "Resolved, That the United States enter the world court without reservations," was settled by the senate and thus caused the question to become a dead issue. The new question is a very lively one at present and although the material is easily found the debaters will have to do excellent work to bring out the main points.

Miss Erswell, the debating coach of Santa Ana, and her debaters, are co-operating with Miss Rumsey and debaters of Anaheim, in drawing up a constitution for the Orange county debaters.

In previous meetings much time has been spent in discussing rules for debating.

Many topics were brought up for debate, among them were the Boulder Dam project, teaching of the Bible in public schools, the Orange County harbor and the combining of the Fullerton and Santa Ana junior colleges.

The second series of debates is to be held March 12 and the third series, on March 16. The schedule of the second series is as follows:

Affirmative Negative

Anaheim .....vs.....Garden Grove Fullerton .....vs.....Hunt. Beh. Garden Grove .....vs.....Orange Hunt. Beh. ....vs.....Santa Ana Santa Ana .....vs.....Anaheim Fullerton .....vs.....Anaheim

Judges will be sent from Anaheim to Orange Santa Ana to Huntington Beach, Orange to Garden Grove, Huntington Beach to Fullerton, Garden Grove to Anaheim; Fullerton to Santa Ana.

They love to be fooled like Barnum's audiences, but that's because they have a finger in the pie. And when you tell them about people with two noses who always carry umbrellas about in the house, they know that you are laughing with them. They know that you know that they know all about it.

It's just as though one were saying, "Come, children, let's forget our troubles for awhile and be a bit foolish and gay."

I was trained for teaching and did teach for five years in Pittsburgh before I was married.

I substituted for a year before I was elected to my own room. That is, I was regular substitute in one building. I taught upstairs and downstairs, and bounced merrily from primers to parallelograms, and back again. I told many stories.

When I ran out of stories, I glibly made up my own. And when I made up my own I radically disregarded morals and the other prescribed things. A story was a story and when the children had worked hard all day it was only fair to give them a little straight desert without any calomel or castor-oil hidden within.

I was elected to my own room a year after. The second grade it was.

A large percentage of my children were from the backwash of the town. It worried me to try to get knowledge into their minds when half the time their tummies were clamoring for food. Thin little gray beings a lot of them, who hadn't much fun at home.

Wanted Them to Be Happy Indeed I ran a sort of Association for the Improvement of the Poor on the side, hunted up work for idle fathers, went to organizations about back rents and sickness, and as for shoes and clothes, I can still see our crammed book-case. But that's another story.

And still it is? All the time I was learning about children. How proud they are, and sensitive, and how fine!

I wanted to make them happy at school if I could. So I went on with the story of the little boy and his baby-stealing, murdering kind, but foolish, happy-go-lucky, mischievous ones that sometimes made you laugh.

Then I married and when my own children were old enough to read I wrote a bedtime story. I made them up quite as often as I read from their little books.

About this time I started to write—not children's stories as one would suppose, but magazine articles and short stories. The first story I ever wrote was not for a boy but about a boy. A newsy and a colored teacher! It sold, too! The very first place! I imagine the luck.

Then I gradually worked into newspaper work. I tried for two years hammering at one syndicate. They were obstinate. Then one day they took a story. I shall always remember its name. It was called "Alas the Plumber." It was about a lover in ill favor who couldn't get an audience with his lady love, and so resorted to talking to her through the furnace pipe.

Missed the Children After that they took all the stories I could write. Then I had request from two other syndicates for stories, so I wrote madly for all three—love stories, a column or two long, and very, very sweet. I sold over six hundred and then I came to a dead stop.

Either I had run out of sugar, or I was tired of grown-ups. I missed the children for an audience.

So I started to write children's books—fairytales.

"Cloud Boat Stories" was published by Houghton Mifflin Company, Boston, followed by "The Wonderful Land of Up."

Then I became associated with NEA Syndicate, which serves the Santa Ana Register, and started to write "The Twins."

Nancy and Nick are as real to me as real children.

And when I'm telling about them I can see fifty other tense little faces around me, their eyes big, their bodies still, every sense alert, their imaginations galloping to the moon.

Upon hearing that the juniors were expecting them to ditch, several senior boys, dressed in hiking togs, wandered into the billiard room. At this the junior boys ran pell-mell for the high school building and waited for the entire senior class to appear upon the scene, but they waited in vain for a senior

STAFF MEMBERS AT TUSTIN GET OLD JOBS BACK

By MARGIE EDMUNDS

TUSTIN UNION HIGH SCHOOL, Feb. 9.—That the members of the Journalism class are well satisfied with their positions held on the "Broadcaster" staff was brought to light on Wednesday, February 3, when the students cast a unanimous vote in favor of each person keeping the same office he had held the previous semester. Although a period had been set aside for the election, merely a few minutes were used to decide the question. This is the first time in the history of a Tustin union high school paper that students were unanimously pleased with the staff.

This is also the first time that an editor-in-chief has held the editorship for more than one term.

The staff believes that the decision will make the work easier and more efficient as each member is now able to carry out his part of the work in an intelligent manner. A change in the staff always necessitates a change in the daily routine of the class. The members of the staff are as follows:

FISH PRESENTED TO TUSTIN SCHOOL

By BETTY PALMER

TUSTIN UNION HIGH SCHOOL, Feb. 9.—The 14 fish, the completion of a gift of fountain, fish and water plants, made to the school by the class of '25, have been the center of attraction since their advent into the patio fountain on Thursday, February 4.

It is already plain to be seen that the fish will be named after those notorious around school. Characteristics such as "beautiful but dumb," "blue eyes," "frilly, closely ruffled fins," "fast mover," etc., correspond with similar traits in students at Tustin high school and facilitate the matter of choosing names for the new-comers.

To be a member of this club the student has to be on the high five list for five successive times and he must have a record of school achievements to his credit.

A meeting was held last Thursday and Harry Munz was elected president. Other officers are: Vice president, Ray Munz; secretary, Esther Guyton rating clerk, Lillian Allen; chief investigator, Lawrence Wisner.

The club meets with the advisory board every other week and has been organized to create more interest in student body affairs. It has been named the Golden Fleece club to carry out the Argonauts idea of working for some goal and it is hoped that this new activity will further student co-operation.

OLIVE BARTON TELLS WHY SHE WRITES 'TWINS'

Children Most Critical Audience in World, Can't "Stuff" Them, Assertion

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following story was written by Olive Roberts Barton, author of "The Adventures of the Twins," Register Daily feature.

BY OLIVE R. BARTON

When anyone asks me how I happened to write children's stories, I am apt to say, "I sort of drifted into it, I suppose."

But after all, I didn't really drift. It was a sort of evolution, from adult fiction, through various stages of it, up to the children.

Now don't laugh, please! Children are the most critical audience in the world. They are natural critics. And, believe me, you can't stuff them.

Trained for Teaching They love to be fooled like Barnum's audiences, but that's because they have a finger in the pie. And when you tell them about people with two noses who always carry umbrellas about in the house, they know that you are laughing with them. They know that you know that they know all about it.

By ROSEMARY THOMASON

GARDEN GROVE UNION HIGH SCHOOL, Feb. 9.—When the clouds shifted after the rain last Tuesday and showed the snow covered mountains in the north, it reminded the junior classmen that senior ditch day must be close at hand, and to add to this, the seniors met in their classroom to discuss some seemingly important matters. As soon as the alert juniors heard of this they listened patiently under the windows in search of any stray bit of news which might come their way.

Filled more and more with the suspicion that the seniors planned to ditch the following day, the juniors misinterpreted any little remark the seniors made. Any reference to hiking togs or camping outfit was a sure sign that the seniors were planning to carry out the old tradition of ditching.

Tuesday night the junior boys, exulting in the fact that the seniors could not "put anything over on them," went down town, keeping on the lookout for any seniors.

Upon hearing that the juniors were expecting them to ditch, several senior boys, dressed in hiking togs, wandered into the billiard room. At this the junior boys ran pell-mell for the high school building and waited for the entire senior class to appear upon the scene, but they waited in vain for a senior

PIONEER'S DAUGHTER WRITES OF BIG SNOW IN SOUTHLAND; RANCH EMPLOYEE LOSES LIFE

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The following article is the first of a series to be written for the Junior Register by Charlotte Moulton, daughter of the present proprietor of the famous Moulton ranch. She will interview her father on a number of interesting historical subjects. This series of articles was arranged by Miss Emma B. Hield, teacher of journalism at the Tustin union high school. Miss Moulton is a member of Miss Hield's class.)

BY CHARLOTTE MOULTON

TUSTIN UNION HIGH SCHOOL, Feb. 9.—Teeming with excitement, romance, and hardship is the history of the early days in Southern California. This history is of intense interest to anyone to whom the Spanish atmosphere coupled with stories of pioneer experiences and hardships, transactions, and life upon the old Spanish land grants, has an appeal.

The writer's father came to California in the spring of 1874, making it 52 years in May that he has lived here. Needless to say, he was acquainted with the pioneers and historic families, and tells many an interesting tale of "early days." One of his most famous and "hard-to-believe" stories is the one about the snow storm in 1882. At the time he was on a part of the ranch which he now owns, adjoining the Irvine ranch on the north, and the O'Neill ranch on the south.

Comparatively light though the snow storm was, it had its toll of death for the narrator of this story.

He tells the tale in the following manner: "It happened on the 12th of January, 1882. It was a very windy, blustery, snowy day. At the time I was raising sheep on a leased piece of land which did not then belong to the ranch, but which has been bought up since. I had my cabin, corrals, and general headquarters.

"It was lambing time and I had extra help, some of whom were merely young boys, for the purpose of keeping the ewes and baby lambs separated from the rest of the flock.

"One of the boys, who had been out with a small flock of ewes and lambs, was found missing when the herders came into camp that night. We took our lanterns and went out into the hills to look for him. He was located when one of the boys stepped on him. Unaccustomed to snow he had crawled into a little gully as a protection from the wind, and the snow had covered him up.

"We brought him back to camp and then took him to his home in San Juan, but he never came to."

Several more oh my's! After the editor of the Junior Register had reminded the Huntington Beach correspondent of The Register, he of the flying flock, why the Barney Oldfield of Tustin forgets entirely to bring the Junior Register copy in. Of course, the woman who handles the news wasn't in the first time but he forgot to call the second time. Put another nice dash, Mons. Printer, after this item also.

And then! The Orange high school journalism staff sent a boy over with a picture of the cast for "Mrs. Bumpstead-Leigh" but the picture wasn't such that it would make a good cut and the editor of the Junior Register asked him to have another one taken and bring it in Monday morning. It is now late at night and the boy hasn't shown up yet. No picture. No story. Yes, Mr. Printer, save a dash for the conclusion of this item, as the French say in Paris, Ill., "aussi."

But wait! Miss Emma B. Hield, instructor in journalism at Tustin high school telephoned in to the effect she had lined up a very good series of articles on the early history of Orange county from the Moulton girl. Oh, my, that made things look better. Surely, a good clean dash should follow this, eh, Mr. Linotype?

That isn't all! And Garden Grove has begun to send in the Junior Register copy in much better shape than ever before and Orange* has promised to have every item signed of Tustin* has promised not to forget again; and the Fullerton journalism teacher isn't going to make the same mistake twice; and Anaheim* is going to be sure and send in its copy; so taking things all in all—

THINGS ARE NOT SO BAD. THINGS ARE NOT SO BAD. THINGS ARE NOT SO BAD.

(Small type: But never let it happen again!)

Ruddy Cheeks—Sparkling Eyes—Most Women Can Have

Says Dr. Edwards, a Well-Known Ohio Physician

Dr. F. M. Edwards for 17 years treated scores of women for liver and bowel ailments. During these years he gave to his patients a prescription made of a few well-known vegetable ingredients mixed with olive oil. You will know them by their olive color.

These tablets are wonder-workers on the liver and bowels, which cause a normal action, carrying off the waste and poisonous matter in one's system.

If you have a pale face, sallow look, dull eyes, pimples, coated tongue, headaches, a listless, no good feeling, all out of sorts, irritable bowels, you take one of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets nightly for a time and note the pleasing results.

Thousands of women and men take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the successful substitute for calomel—now and then just to keep them fit. 15c and 30c.

Speeding is not an offense unless you get arrested—that's the way most people seem to look at it—and then, nine times out of ten, the arresting officer is a big bum, in your estimation.

About the most childish thing a motorist can do, is to squawk and hate the cop who pins him. "He singled me out and arrested me just for meanness," one motorist said yesterday.

A cop is a good fellow as long as he doesn't arrest YOU, then he is the most despicable person in the world. Some motorists never stop to think that the officer is being paid just to keep wild drivers from becoming wild.

Absurd as it may seem, a motorist stated the other day, that officers were not paid to arrest persons for speeding, but to make their presence known on the road, warning motorists that speeding is not allowed. And right there the officer's duties ceased, this man believed.

This being true, we suggest that all of Orange county's motor cops be given their walking papers, and the county and state erect a number of dummy motorcycles and officers, and place them at each intersection in the county. Look at the salaries that would be saved.

Banking circles were thrown into a furore today over the sudden disappearance of Pete Pennyantis, said to be one of the leading candidates for president of the Bankers club. Mr. Pennyantis has not been at his regular parking place in front of the bank for two days.

Mr. Pennyantis has been known to leave suddenly before this, according to his wife, but never before on the eve of the many elections in which he has participated.

Fear that foul play has been practiced caused a number of other candidates to make a search for his whereabouts, causing them to lose a day in their campaigning.

Prescription books of local physicians are today being checked to determine whether Mr. Pennyantis secured any squirrel or alleged bourbon whiskey before his disappearance.

Police reported today that all blonds in the city have been checked, thereby refuting the rumor that a blond woman may have been mixed up in the case. J. McGuffus McWhistle, conductor of the election, said today that he believed the talk of a blond being connected with the strange disappearance was merely political bunko.

Several squads of officers searched the building last night, thinking perhaps that Mr. Pennyantis had lost his way while trying to find the alley door of the police station, but their efforts were futile.

Believe this or not, but there is a drug store in Meridian, Miss., owned and operated under the name of "Lide and Cheatum."

Recently a man by the name of F. J. attempted to purchase a third interest in the place and but for his name, the deal possibly would have gone through. Cheatum said: "The name is bad enough as it is, but I'll be damned if it's going to be 'Lide, Cheatum and Fye!'"

Cheatum, by the way, is said to be a brother of a man who is in business in Memphis with a man named Holthum.

Woman in Fraud Case Sentenced

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 8.—Mrs. Rosie Adamson was sentenced to from one to 14 years in San Quentin penitentiary today for the Pomona "washing machine swindle."

Mrs. Edna Short, Pomona, co-defendant with Mrs. Adamson, convicted on one of 12 counts of forgery in connection with the alleged swindle, filed motion for a new trial. Her attorney, S. S. Hahn, will present arguments Thursday.

Charges against the women were the outgrowth of sale of forged sales contracts to the Pacific Contract Purchasing company and Pomona Valley Mortgage company.

Mrs. Adamson originally filed a plea of guilty. Mrs. Short pleaded innocence and was given a trial.

Book Over Heart Saves Man's Life

RED BLUFF, Calif., Feb. 9.—A small book in the left side vest pocket of Nathan W. Spears, foreman of the local section crew, is credited with having saved his life when Victor Duran, 30, a laborer, it is charged lunged at him with an open knife and stabbed him near the heart. The knife blade struck Spears on a rib and glanced off without serious result. The knife pierced the book.

Duran also is charged with having cut William Spears, young son of the section boss, on the left hand during the altercation. The elder Spears swore to a complaint against Duran, who is in jail.

Duran told the officers he went to Spears' home to obtain a bottle of wine he thought they had. Spears ordered him off the premises. The alleged stabbing followed.

Lonely Farmers Seeking Wives

WINNEMUCCA, Nev., Feb. 9.—A call for wives has gone out from the lonely bachelors of Paradise and Quinn River valleys, in northern Humboldt county. Men outnumber women in the two fertile valleys by 10 to one, and marriageable females are at a premium.

Farmers visiting Winnemucca state that scores of men are eager to get married, including many fairly wealthy farmers and stockmen. About one-third of the male residents are foreign immigrants.

The chief demand is for women liking farm life and willing to aid their husbands in their efforts to carve homes and fortunes out of the virgin country.

NEWS from ORANGE COUNTY

NAVEL ORANGE SHIPMENTS IN ANAHEIM END

ANAHEIM, Feb. 9.—Good prices with ready demand characterized the 1925-26 navel season which has come practically to a close, as far as Anaheim growers and distributors are concerned, it was learned today.

Two cars of navel remain to be shipped from the Anaheim Citrus Fruit association's packing house, and when these are put on the rails the latter part of this month, navel shipping from this section will have been concluded, local distributors declared.

Sixty-eight cars of the navels have so far been shipped from the local houses, according to reports this morning of the three principal associations of the city. These were distributed as follows: Anaheim Citrus Fruit association, 27 cars; Anaheim Orange and Lemon association, 20 cars; Anaheim Co-operative Orange association, 21 cars. Approximately 30 more cars of the winter fruit remains for shipment in the Fullerton and Placentia districts, Dale King, manager of the Northern Orange County Citrus exchange, reported this morning. These are expected to be cleared away within the next two weeks, he said.

The present season has surpassed the 1925 season so far, both as to quantity of production and average market prices, distributors state. Though for a period of approximately three weeks, average prices this year showed a slight decrease as compared with last year, the general average has been considerably higher this season, W. H. Schureman, manager of the Anaheim Citrus Fruit association, reported.

The navel season this year has been brought to a close within a period of approximately six weeks. The first navels from this section were shipped to the eastern markets just before Christmas to take advantage of the holiday trade. The season did not get fully under way, however, until the latter part of the month of December, when shipping began in earnest.

Most local houses are now inactive and will remain until the opening of the 1926 Valencia season, which is expected to open around the latter part of April or early in May.

OPEN FORUM SCHEDULED BY H. B. CHAMBER

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Feb. 9.—A meeting where everyone is invited to come and express his opinion about anything in regard to the city of Huntington Beach or any of its organizations will be held here in the near future.

It was advocated at the regular session of the chamber of commerce here yesterday. There will be no banquet, no outside speaker, and the meeting will not be a gathering of the chamber of commerce members but will be a representative meeting including every business man and working man in the town who is interested enough to attend.

The urgent need for such a meeting was discussed at the meeting of the chamber yesterday. Arguments both for and against the meeting were proposed by various members of the organization and it was finally decided to call a mass meeting where everyone may express an opinion.

Leaders of the chamber of commerce yesterday declared that they were tired of being criticised for their efforts to boost the city and proposed having persons who come and sit and leave and then talk, do some talking at the meeting.

"It is always the same ones who do things. People do not seem to realize that what a few in the chamber of commerce are doing, anyone can do if they wish," L. W. Blodgett declared.

Dr. G. A. Shank advocated the meeting, declaring that it should be at night with no banquet attached. The date and place of the meeting will be decided at a future meeting of the chamber and any one interested will be invited to attend.

Marcy, who attended the charter presentation at Ventura on Friday night, gave a report of that event.

OPENING OF PAVED ROAD WILL BE CELEBRATED BY COMMUNITIES CONCERNED

STANTON, Feb. 9.—A celebration to mark the opening of the newly paved highway between Huntington Beach and the Garden Grove road intersection and the Anaheim-Downey highway will be held by towns affected by the new road. Representatives of Huntington Beach, Park, Stanton, Westminster and Lincoln Gardens were present at a meeting here last night, when plans for the opening ceremonies were outlined.

The opening of the road will be observed on February 27, according to a decision reached last night. The celebration will take the form of a caravan, leaving Buena Park shortly after 10 a. m. Speeches and music will feature a program to be given at Buena Park and stops will be made along the route and short talks given by members of the party.

A basket lunch will be served on picnic tables at Huntington Beach and members of the celebrating party will spend the afternoon enjoying a program to be arranged by an entertainment committee. A grand ball is scheduled at Huntington Beach as the closing feature of the program.

Committees on publicity and for the caravan were appointed last night. T. B. Talbert, chairman of the county board of supervisors, will be the master of ceremonies. Elson Conrad, of Huntington Beach, is in charge of advertising, and W. D. Young, of Huntington Beach, is in charge of the caravan.

The road, which is now nearing completion, is being improved by the county by pavement with asphalt and rock. When completed, it will open a much shorter route for persons wishing to get from Buena Park and points north to Orange county beaches, and will make a much shorter route for residents of Huntington Beach and Newport Beach to Buena Park and Los Angeles.

MARCUS ANDRADE WINS PROMOTION

ANAHEIM, Feb. 9.—Eight years of faithful service as a member of the Anaheim police department brought a fitting reward today to Marcus Andrade, when Chief of Police J. S. Martin announced his promotion to the rank of captain.

Andrade joined the local force eight years ago in May and since that time, has served under five different chiefs. He has specialized in handling juvenile and Mexican cases, his knowledge of Spanish peculiarly fitting him to act as interpreter for cases of the latter sort.

ANAHEIM WOMAN PASSES ON TRAIN

ANAHEIM, Feb. 9.—Tragedy stalked in the path of Mrs. Sarah R. Pearson, 50, wife of Charles B. Pearson, a rancher living south of Anaheim, and brought her death just as she was about to realize the goal of four years of struggle and sacrifice.

Her husband had been ill for four years. So seriously ill that his recovery was despaired of if he remained in this territory. New Mexico seemed to offer the only hope for the recovery of the stricken man. But money was not plentiful.

So Mrs. Pearson began to toil and save and after four years, was in a position to take her husband to New Mexico. She and his brother, C. L. Pearson, also of this city, left last week for the "promised land."

Once on the train, Mrs. Pearson relaxed, her grief in eight. She felt that her efforts were now to have their reward. On the evening of February 6, she enjoyed a dinner in the diner of the train. A few hours later, as the train sped between Albuquerque and Gallup, New Mexico, she suddenly collapsed and died. Acute indigestion, combined with a slight heart attack, are given as the cause of her death.

Funeral services were held this afternoon from the Backs-Terry and Campbell funeral chapel of this city. Burial was in Loma Vista cemetery.

WORK ON RAIL BODY TOLD BY LEON WHITSELL

ORANGE, Feb. 9.—Addressing the members of the Orange Community Chamber of Commerce and their ladies on the railroad commissioners' powers and limitations, Leon O. Whitsell, state railroad commissioner and former county supervisor, gave the principal address at the chamber dinner last night.

Mr. Whitsell told of the limitations placed upon the commission by the U. S. supreme court, and the California supreme court, and spoke of the simplicity of getting matters before the commission.

Mr. Whitsell gave a list of figures showing the activity of the commission, and told of the work of the commission during the war. This latter report showed that the rail rates were increased only 40 per cent, whereas if the rates had been increased in proportion to those of other public utilities, the people of California would have paid a hundred million dollars more.

Dr. F. W. Slabaugh, of Santa Ana, spoke briefly on county advertising. The Fullerton high school "Hoot Owls" entertained with a vocal program.

The proposed membership campaign of the Orange Community Chamber of Commerce has been postponed until March, Secretary V. D. Johnson announced.

The ordinance was made uniform with similar regulations adopted in Glenn, Butte and other counties in this part of the state.

821 Rabbits And Bed Sheet Shot

LODI, Calif., Feb. 9.—In a rabbit drive in the Buella district, 821 rabbits were killed and one bed sheet was destroyed by amateur gunners.

Just as Irving Wakefield and Chester Neuman were ready to fire at a running rabbit, a Japanese woman reeled a bed sheet to the outer end of the clothesline and it passed the gunmen just as they shot.

Both guns sent charges of shot through the sheet and left nothing much but the hem of the garment.

"Phillips Milk of Magnesia"

Better than Soda

Hereafter, instead of soda, take a little "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" in water any time for indigestion or sour, acid, gassy stomach, and relief will come instantly.

For fifty years genuine "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" has been prescribed by physicians because it overcomes three times as much acid in the stomach as a saturated solution of bicarbonate of soda, leaving the stomach sweet and free from all gases. It neutralizes acid fermentations in the bowels and gently urges the souring waste from the system without purging. Besides, it is more pleasant to take than soda. In-ist upon "Phillips." Twenty-five cent bottles, any drugstore.—Adv.

EVENING SALUTATION

Whilst I yet live, let me not live in vain.

HIGHWAY FINANCES

Two financial phases of highway construction have been occupying a good deal of attention recently, and seem certain to be to the fore frequently not only this year but next year and other years to come. One phase of the situation was brought out in an emphatic manner by the Automobile Club of Southern California, which asserts that the southern portion of the state has not been getting its share of the state highway funds. Another phase was brought out at a meeting of county supervisors of the state at Fresno, in which it was shown that the supervisors prefer an increase in the gasoline tax rather than reliance upon bond issues for new highway construction.

Just why the automobile club at this time renewed its outcry against the distribution of highway expenditures is not made plain. We suspect that there is something political in it. Passing over the fact that the automobile club was one of the agencies that brought about the election of Governor Richardson, and the fact that it was Governor Richardson who named two strong adherents of the north upon the State Highway commission, as against one of the south, it looks as though the automobile club was making a play for something that is not apparent to the ordinary observer. We do not believe that the club has actually reached a decision to stir up sentiment against the governor. It is not likely to reach any such a decision until the situation in the field against him clears up, if it does clear up. Possibly the automobile club knew that a new distribution of funds was coming up, and the outcry was meant as a warning to the state administration that unless Southern California got its share, the automobile club might yet be listed among those who are not for the reelection of the Governor.

The supervisors are reported to be well pleased with the gasoline tax system. Through it, the counties are provided with substantial sums for highways, for half of the tax goes to the counties. If the same amounts were raised through local taxes, taxpayers would rise up in arms and make even more of a noise against high taxes than they do now in most of the counties of the state. Coming through the gasoline route, this money is put into the county treasury in a painless way. Why, then, should supervisors take any chances with bond issues? Why go through the turmoil and expense of elections? The thing to do, as the supervisors see it, is to continue with the gasoline tax system, and to expand it; that is, to increase the tax from two cents a gallon to three.

No change in the tax can be made before the meeting of the legislature next year. Since the point has been raised, it is possible that the gasoline tax will become a minor issue during the campaign for the election of members of the legislature this year. The matter is one that taxpayers ought to think about.

We have finer homes, and make less use of them, than any other nation.

MOVIE EMPLOYMENT BUREAU

The Motion Picture Producers' and Distributors' association has recently opened a free employment bureau in Hollywood, through which all extras will be hired. The chief object of this bureau is to eliminate the fake movie schools that have been attracting unwary pupils, promising them screen careers after a few lessons in make-up and acting.

"Mistreatment of the film extra will not be tolerated, this being a service wholly for the interests and welfare of the men and women engaged in this employment," says one of the organization's officials. It is a step in the right direction. The lure of the films has been a strong one. The career looks easy and the reward fabulously high to the movie-struck folk who know nothing about acting or the special requirements of screen acting. The movie-producing centers have been deluged with girls and boys and men and women who thought that they could attain movie stardom merely by presenting themselves at the door.

It is well to protect these people from themselves and from the sharpers who have sought to exploit them. It is also well to protect the moving picture industry and art from the effects of such gross misconceptions.

The gentleman butterfly uses perfume to attract the lady of his love, says a scientist. Lemon, verbenas and musk are among the favorites. We'll say if he used some of the modern composites now so much in favor, he'd have a hard time getting any gentle lady butterfly to approach him.

OLD AGE IN CANADA

In this country when a centenarian is discovered, reporters flock to his home to learn just how he managed to attain that great age.

In Canada, where, by the way, these centenarians are surprisingly numerous, they put the honored ancient's picture in the paper along with a story about all that he had done for his country and his community, what his political stand has been, how regularly he has voted, and so on.

Such a photograph and story appeared in the Toronto Globe recently telling of the life of 100-year-old Joshua Anderson and his family. His wife is now 90 years old. His mother lived to be 95. His wife's grandfather attained 101 years. Mr. Anderson has voted regularly for 76 years. He and his wife have been married 70 years. They have six children, 20 grandchildren and 22 great-grandchildren.

Longevity seems to run in a good many Canadian families, among people who live normal, active lives. And the strange part of it is that other Canadians take it so for granted, simply honoring these old people without ever inquiring as to whether or not they are vegetarians. Maybe that's one reason why they live so long—they don't fuss about the rules.

PICKING A HUSBAND

Whatever may be the appeal of the "shiek" type, it doesn't seem to make much of a hit with the girls at Ohio State university. Four hundred of them, answering a matrimonial questionnaire, give this list of preferential qualifications for their prospective husbands:

First in importance is moral character, the girls declare by a majority of 206.
Next comes good health, which 106 place first.
Only 34 regard mental ability as of first importance. The girls evidently expect to furnish the brains themselves.

None of the girls give good looks as prerequisite. This raises one's estimate of the value of higher education. At the same time, be it observed, this is merely what the college girls say. Will they act accordingly, when it comes to the actual choosing? Or will they fall for good looks and congenial dispositions, as their less scholarly sisters so often do, letting the other qualifications trail a long way behind?

AIDS THE PLAYGROUNDS

The interest that is being taken by the members of the Parent-Teacher associations of Santa Ana in the operetta to be presented Thursday and Friday evenings of this week might very fittingly be spread into every home of the city. The performance, in which scores of children will appear, in itself will have an appeal, but in addition to that the cause represented by the entertainment project is to be considered.

The reason for giving the operetta is the desire of Parent-Teacher leaders to raise funds with which to conduct a playgrounds during the coming summer. It is proposed to have someone in charge of the playgrounds so that the children will be under supervision.

For some years, the Parent-Teacher organization has taken a keen interest in playgrounds, and no organization is more anxious than this to do a full share in providing Santa Ana with permanent playgrounds and with additional parks.

Now that we're going into the World Court, no need of hurry to provide business for it. International litigation is no more desirable than any other kind.

Drowsy Driver Menace

San Bernardino Sun

Several instances of death on the highways of California because of automobile drivers going to sleep at the wheel have been chronicled of late. It is nothing new, but as automobiles increase and as the mileage of California's splendid highways lengthens, such incidents naturally become more frequent and more alarming. It is bad enough for the motorist and the pedestrian as well to be menaced by the incompetent driver, the careless driver and the drunken driver, without adding the menace of one who undertakes to guide a machine while he is in such a state of physical exhaustion that he nods at the wheel.

Any person who sits in the driver's seat more than 10 hours at a stretch taxes his powers of physical endurance beyond a reasonable limit. He becomes more tired than he may realize. He is less alert to his surroundings and his taxed nerves are less responsive to the urge of the brain and the brain itself becomes dulled to impressions of things around it. This is bad enough in the daytime, but at night when there are less things to challenge attention and keep the mind active, and the quiet and soothing effect of the darkness makes for relaxation, then the tired driver becomes much more of a menace.

Surely driving under such conditions is carelessness and when it results in the death of some other person it is criminal carelessness. Yet we do not know that any court has ever taken this view of the matter. Overtime work with machinery in factories is being legislated against because of the added danger to the lives of operatives. The same reason holds in automobile driving. Admission that he "took a few drinks" has been considered by some courts as proof of driving while intoxicated. In a similar way admission that a man was constantly at the wheel from 10 to 15 hours should be considered proof of carelessness. The more our highways lengthen and our automobiles multiply, the more we need to see that those who drive them are in a fit physical and mental condition to do so.

Build Roads Where Needed

Long Beach Press-Telegram

Good roads are appreciated wherever they may be built, but until such time as city and county, state and nation can afford to give every bit of highway a hard surface, wise selection of routes to be improved should be insisted upon, with first attention given to those thoroughfares over which there is the heaviest travel.

When California first proposed to bond itself for a system of state highways, the promoters of the plan painted an ideal picture of boulevards leading from the capital of the state to every county seat and every important city. Two other state bond issues have been voted since then, and yet this theoretical goal has not been accomplished. It was found impracticable because those county seats which had the least population and the smallest resources were located in places that called for the most expensive road building. There were other cities in the valleys, of more importance and yet lacking the distinction of having a county court house, but otherwise able to present a more logical argument for recognition at the hands of the California Highway commission.

Now, an Illinois representative in congress has introduced a bill authorizing a bond issue for $3,000,000,000 for the purpose of constructing a nationwide network of highways which will link the national capital with state capitals. In many respects, the plan resembles that advanced by California some fifteen years ago. This also will be found impracticable for the same economic reasons that the road builders of the state were compelled to amend their plans.

Instead of trying to connect every state capital, national highway resources should be concentrated on trunk lines crossing the continent from sea to sea and connecting these trunk lines with North and South boulevards so located that they will best serve population, business and sound development.

DANGER IN COMMON CUPS

It is probably no exaggeration to say that every day there are in the United States, on an average, a million persons who suffer, or are recovering from some communicable disease of some kind.

Among the most prevalent and the most damaging of these ailments are the so-called "respiratory diseases" and many contagious diseases conveyed by the secretion of the nose and mouth, and consequently by the common drinking cup. Included in these groups (respiratory and contagious diseases) are tuberculosis, pneumonia, influenza, diphtheria, scarlet fever, measles, whooping cough, cerebrospinal meningitis, poliomyelitis (better known as infantile paralysis), smallpox, chickenpox, mumps, German measles, septic sore throat, and last but not least, the common cold.

The common drinking cup was once a fruitful source of disease.

The common towel and the common comb and brush of the waiting room or other public place all contribute to bring their users into very close relationship, a relationship usually closer and more intimate than that of ordinary social intercourse with friends or acquaintances.

We cannot individually completely protect ourselves from infection. In order, therefore, to prevent the spread of disease every community should hire a health officer and give him a certain number of assistants to help him and an appropriation of money for the expenses of his work.

Three of a Kind — With but a Single Thought

Courage and Sacrifice
Not Lost to the Race

San Francisco Chronicle.

To those who lament that progress in the mechanical invention has taken the thrill out of life and reduced existence to a humdrum and standardized mediocrity we offer the story of the attempt to save the freighters Laristan and Antioch from the fury of an Atlantic storm as proof that man has not yet conquered all the perils of the deep nor lost his capacity for heroism in the face of danger.

The work of the rescuing ships, the Bremen and the President Roosevelt, was worthy of the best traditions of the sea. They were swift in answering the radio call for aid and in the performance of their duty ready to make sacrifice of their own lives. Two of the crew of the President Roosevelt were drowned in the attempt to get a boat to the sinking Antioch. The whole episode is aglow with a fine daring.

It takes such an event to show men in their true character. The world has not gone to seed because modern invention has eased the strain on many daily employments and lightened tasks that were otherwise burdensome. In gaining speed, civilization has not sacrificed all ruggedness. Courage is just as much alive in an S. O. S. age as it was when the world was confined to the Mediterranean. And it is decidedly more efficient.

HIDIN' THINGS

A baby shouldn't eat of too much candy, so they say. It makes them sick, and shucks, it isn't nice to feel that way. But still there's no discretion in a tiny youngster's mind, so how can people blame them when they eat all they can find?

Each household has some china that is broken by a touch. I guess perhaps the reason is because it cost so much. To keep a wee one shy of it is something you can't teach, so, after all, it's mighty wise to put it out of reach.

In mother's darning basket are some needles, yarn and thread. Why is it every baby to the darning basket's led? We just can't let the needles prick, and make the kidlet cry. That's why you'll find the darning basket hidden way up high.

It keeps the grown-ups busy when a little tot's around, ahidin' things in secret spots where they cannot be found. But, as the tot grows older, it imagines it's a game, and so it keeps on hunting, an' it finds things, just the same.

Some people are finished singers, and some ought to be.

If we knew just when the radio announcer was going to quit gabbing, and switch to music, we'd know just when to turn the dials on and off.

If the Prince of Wales doesn't quit riding horses, they're gonna "crown" him. And, if he does someday they'll crown him anyway.

The neighbors knew that he was kind. He wouldn't hurt a pup. But, golly, every morning he would beat his wify up.

NOW, HONESTLY—

Just supposing you had to serve all of the time that you have kept people waiting.

"Would likely be from now on. All the world has a habit of being late for engagements. Even a person who gets there first is late—but not so much so as the other party.

If there were some way to set our watches so a six o'clock engagement would mean six thirty—or a ten o'clock one mean eleven, it wouldn't be so bad.

But, so long as there isn't—let's try being on time.

I don't know whether or not to give credit to the man who tells his wife everything that happens—and then some.

The world is so full of a number of things—and most women want all of them.

Eleven cubic feet of water, when frozen, make twelve cubic feet of ice. Unfrozen, they make eleven cubic feet of water.

Prof. Otergosh Sakes has solved the problem of what to do when you order coffee without cream, and they haven't got any cream. Get it without milk.

HAMAN—If there are seven ages of man, how many are there of woman?

Two—Two—and the other is her right one.

State Road East of The Sierra Nevadas

From California Highways, official organ of the State Highway Com.

The California highway commission, in January, 1925, took over for maintenance an 18-mile section of county road in Mono county, extending from Magee creek to Deadman creek. The route lies through the "Deadman" country, along the base of the high Sierra, at an elevation of 7100 to 8000 feet. It forms a part of the original state highway system laid out and adopted as a result of the first bond issue of 1909.

The route has survived to find their way out when overtaken by the driving snow storms characteristic of the region.

When taken over, the road long since had been abandoned by the county as far as maintenance was concerned and was annually going bad to worse. It was demolished finally, during the season of 1924, by a fleet of trucks hauling machinery and supplies for hydro-electric projects then under construction in Mono county. At the close of the hauling season nothing was left but deep ruts and chuck holes, the result of the struggles of truck drivers to find a way through after the county trail was no more.

In the spring found it beyond repair. For miles no travelable way was in sight. The ruts had been converted into gulleys by the melting snow.

The county had no funds with which to undertake repairs and, if traffic were to be served, action by the highway commission was imperative. The section was taken over and the problem became one for Division IX to solve.

With the season of tourist travel fast approaching, and only "Best Temporary Road" signs to guide the bewildered motorist through the timber, no time was to be lost. Requests for engineering work orders and specific funds were forgotten, when, on May 19 last, Foreman Paul Peak established his camp. He had a crew of nine men and equipment consisting of two Holt caterpillar tractors, a 5-ton and a 2-ton, a truck, two road graders, a scraper and a scraper. No teams were employed either for clearing or grading. And on July 20th, the job was completed.

Short Cuts Bring Results. Survey parties were in evidence. With the assistance of the camp foreman, the relocation was flagged out and followed up, as the grading progresses, with such stakes as were necessary. Short cuts and easy methods produced results commensurate with the purpose involved.

"Easy enough," explains the skeptic, "a flat country, a 16-mile tangent. Not so, the route lies through timbered hills, skirting the Mammoth Lakes, in sight of the famous Minaretts, and alongside the Casa Diablo, scenic features that hardly signify desert plains.

Lack of funds, therefore, controlled. A line of least resistance had to be developed that, at the same time, maintained proper alignment and grade. Drainage conditions also governed the location to a considerable extent.

The formation of the district is generally of volcanic cinders and sand, which yielded in a satisfactory manner to the grading methods employed and afforded a very good surface. Lava rock was encountered in places.

The romantic character of the country and unusual camp environments were in marked contrast to the Mojave desert, from which the men were transferred and they entered into the spirit of the project in a creditable manner.

The alignment, surface and grades, with rather pronounced undulations, are all that may be wished for, and both the road and its surroundings are pleasant to look upon. With minor changes to be made during the season of 1926, a road will be provided, fast enough, and adequate for traffic for a considerable period.

The towers of Deadman hills exist now only as memories and Inyo and Mono approaches to the scenic wonders of the high Sierra country may be reached in comfort and safety. A heretofore little known section of California, destined some day to be the playground of millions, has been made more accessible and has moved a step nearer, the writer believes, to its ultimate destiny.
